Boice,1994 Gendered Spaces: The World Columbian Exposition of 1893, The Woman's Building, and Mary Cassatt's Modern Woman Haelim Allen,2019 Mary Cassatt is acknowledged as a painter of women and of their daily lives depicting such subjects as mothers bathing or cuddling their children young women playing instruments picking fruit or attending performances and girls running or sitting and reading Her mural for The World Columbian Exposition held in Chicago of 1893 and entitled Modern Woman continues in the same vein as her overall body of work And yet Cassatt understood that this mural was decorative in nature with its own visual tradition The mural is a composition the largest that Cassatt ever painted about women and in this case modern women Modern Woman and women s participation in world expositions in the United States near the turn of the century marked a pivotal point in history for women Her painting embodies a progressive aspect seen not only in its subject matter women s work but also in the manner in which it was painted It shows the continued influence of Impressionism and her openness to experimentation The two initial world expositions were held in the United States each included a women s pavilion the World Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1876 and the World Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893 As such Mary Cassatt s mural and the world expositions housing a pavilion for women reflect the increasing desire by women to have their voices heard This thesis will examine these exceptional and radical gender specific spaces celebrating womanhood Mary Cassatt Carlie Selbo Sigel,1999 Mary Cassatt between Paris and New York Ruth E. Clement,Christiane Erbolato-Ramsey,Annick Houzé,2000-02-28 This reference organizes and describes the primary and secondary literature surrounding Mary Stevenson Cassatt Berthe Morisot Eva Gonzal s and Marie Bracquemond four major women Impressionist artists The Impressionist group included several women artists of considerable ability whose works and lives were largely ignored until the advent of feminist art criticism in the early 1970s. They studied, worked, and exhibited with their male counterparts including Degas, Manet, Monet, and Pissarro. The entries provide extensive coverage of the careers, critical reception, exhibition history, and growing reputations of these four female artists and discuss women Impressionists in general as they shared the challenges of becoming accepted as professional artists in late 19th century society. Containing nearly 900 citations of manuscripts, books, articles, reproductions, films, exhibitions, and reviews, this unique sourcebook will appeal to both art and women's studies scholars. Each artist receives a biographical sketch, chronology, information about individual and group exhibitions and reviews, and a primary and secondary bibliography which captures details about the artist's life, career, and relationship with other artists. An art works index and names index complete the volume.

Vistas de España Mary Elizabeth Boone, 2007-01-01

In the decades following the American Civil War and leading up to the First World War, a definitive shift in power took place between Spain and the United States. This original book explores American artists' perceptions of Spain during this period of turmoil and demonstrates how their responses to Spanish art helped to answer emerging complex questions about American national identity. Mary Elizabeth Boone focuses on works by Thomas Eakins, Mary Cassatt, William Merritt Chase, John Singer Sargent, Robert Henri, and other American artists who traveled to Spain to study the achievements of such great masters as Murillo, Velázquez, and Goya. The resulting American paintings, some well known and others now largely forgotten, provide intriguing insights not only into the 19th century American struggle to define itself as an imperial power but also into the relations between the United States and the Spanish speaking world today.
