Roofing Safety: General Requirements

Construction safety Orders 1724, 1730, and 1731 were written to prevent accidents involving falls from roofs during roofing operations. Such falls are the cause of many serious injuries in the roofing industry.

This topic covers Section 1724, General Requirements, Sections 1730, Roofing Hazards and 1731, Roofing Hazards - New Production Type Residential Construction are covered under another Tailgate/Toolbox Topic.

Suggestions

Start by reminding all roofers that they must be protected from falls on roofs over 20 feet high by fall arrest systems, roof jacks, guardrails, catch platforms, or other means.

Review the summary of Section 1724 with the employees. Stop from time to time for their questions.

After you complete the summary, have the employees take a quick look around the worksite to see whether the requirements of the safety order are actually being met. When they have completed their inspection, create a discussion by using the following question as a guide.

Discussion questions

During your inspection, what safety problems did you discover?

- Did you find hazards not covered by the safety order?
- How can these hazards be eliminated?
- What conditions cause the most falls in roofing?
 - Carelessness by workers?
 - Unsafe working conditions?
 - Hazardous weather conditions?
