Mass Media And Election Campaigns:

Mass Media and Elections Richard Joslyn, 1984 Social Media and Election Campaigns Gunn Sara Enli, Hallvard Moe, 2017-10-02 This book aims to further the research in the fields of social media and political communication by moving beyond the hype and avoiding the most eye catching and spectacular cases It looks at stable democracies without current political turmoil small countries as well as large continents and minor political parties as well as major ones Investigating emerging practices in the United States Europe and Australia both on national and local levels enables us to grasp contemporary tendencies across different regions and countries The book provides empirical insights into the diverse uses of different social media for political communication in different societies Contributors look at the ways in which novel arenas connect with other channels for political communication and how politicians as well as citizens in general use social media services Presenting state of the art methodological approaches drawing on a combination of qualitative and quantitative analyses the book brings together an interdisciplinary group of researchers in order to address emerging practices of the mediation of politics campaign communication and issues of citizenship and democracy as expressed on social media platforms This book was originally published as a special issue of Information Communication Society The media and the presidential elections in Russia 2000 Igor Eremin, 2000 The SAGE International Encyclopedia of Mass Media and Society Debra L. Merskin, 2019-11-12 The reference will discuss mass media around the world in their varied forms newspapers magazines radio television film books music websites and social media and will describe the role of each in both mirroring and shaping society The role of the media in election campaign - on the example of Bosnia and Herzegovina and Ukraine Ines Sabanovic, 2007-07-06 Diploma Thesis from the year 2007 in the subject Communications Media and Politics Politic Communications grade 2 University of Vienna language English abstract Introduction No man is an island entire of itself every man is a piece of the continent a part of the main this utopia by John Donne was written in the renaissance period and aimed to explain the place of a person as a unit in a society I use this utopia at the beginning of my diploma paper because I believe that it could be placed in modern time and it can describe the modern man in relation to the mass media today Each and every one of us uses media in some context of our lives It doesn't matter is that the print media internet or TV we can't live without it anymore Everything we need to know all information we need for surviving in the society is connected and broadcasted through the mass media It doesn't have to be a first hand experience we can learn some new information from another person but it is the big possibility that this person found out about this information from the media This is where the verse no man is an island comes to expression at the most All the function of the media described later in the diploma paper is subjected to us to us as individuals in a society or so the theory says The mass media and elections there are a lot of questions we can ask and theses we can construct about this theme Elections are the central instrument for the exercise of the sovereignty of the nation and they can be seen as the quality measurement of the society

They affirm that the political power comes from the people to the politician and as that she should not be used in negative connotations. The main question of this diploma paper is: Why is it possible to have a revolution in a country like Ukraine whose place in the range of the free media is way under the place of Bosnia and Herzegovina whose citizens still live in a bad economical and political circumstances and where one sees no significant move forward? Mass Media and Political Communication in New Democracies Katrin Voltmer, 2006. This book examines how political communication and the mass media have played a central role in the consolidation of emerging democracies around the world. Covering a broad range of political and cultural contexts including Eastern and Southern Europe, Latin America, Asia and Africa, this new volume investigates the problems and conflicts arising in the process of establishing an independent media and competitive politics in post-autocratic societies. Considering the changing dynamic in the relationship between political actors, the media and their audience, the authors of this volume address the following issues: changing journalistic role perceptions and journalistic quality; the reasons and consequences of persisting instrumentalization of the media by political actors; the role of the media in election campaigns; the way in which the citizens interpret political messages and the extent to which the media influence political attitudes and electoral behaviour; the role of the Internet in building a democratic public sphere. This book will be of great interest to all those studying and researching democracy and democratization, comparative politics, political communication, journalism, media and the Internet.

Media And Voters In Canadian Election Campaigns Frederick J. Fletcher, 1991-01-01. Taken together, the five studies provide a useful overview of the effectiveness of various forms of campaign communication in informing voters. Much of the material presented here is not readily available elsewhere.

Media, Elections, And Democracy: Royal Commission on Electoral Reform Frederick J. Fletcher, 1991-01-01. Media Elections and Democracy examines campaign communication in selected industrial democracies. Klaus Schoenbach, Karen Siune Doris Graber and a host of authors around the world contribute critical overviews of the systems in their countries. The studies deal with a wide range of issues in modern communication, including the principles and practices of news and public affairs coverage and the impact of new technologies. Routledge Handbook of Media Law Monroe Price, Stefaan Verhulst, Libby Morgan, 2013-01-04. Featuring specially commissioned chapters from experts in the field of media and communications law, this book provides an authoritative survey of media law from a comparative perspective. The handbook does not simply offer a synopsis of the state of affairs in media law jurisprudence; rather, it provides a better understanding of the forces that generate media rules, norms and standards against the background of major transformations in the way information is mediated as a result of democratization, economic development, cultural change, globalization and technological innovation. The book addresses a range of issues, including Media Law and Evolving Concepts of Democracy, Network neutrality and traffic management, Public Service Broadcasting in Europe, Interception of Communication and Surveillance in Russia, State secrets, leaks and the media. A variety of rule-making institutions are considered, including administrative and judicial entities within and outside government but also entities such as associations and corporations that generate binding rules The book assesses the emerging role of supranational economic and political groupings as well as non Western models such as China and India where cultural attitudes toward media freedoms are often very different Monroe E Price is Director of the Center for Global Communication Studies at the Annenberg School for the University of Pennsylvania and Joseph and Sadie Danciger Professor of Law and Director of the Howard M Squadron Program in Law Media and Society at the Cardozo School of Law Stefaan Verhulst is Chief of Research at the Markle Foundation Previously he was the co founder and co director with Professor Monroe Price of the Programme in Comparative Media Law and Policy PCMLP at Oxford University as well as senior research fellow at the Centre for Socio Legal Studies Libby Morgan is the Associate Director of the Center for Global Communication Studies at the Annenberg School for the University of Pennsylvania

Comparative Issues in Party and Election Finance F. Leslie Seidle, 1991-01-01 This book is one of 23 volumes of research commissioned by the Royal Commission on Electoral Reform and Party Financing and one of five volumes within this series dealing specifically with party and election finance Because the issue of money in elections is as old as democracy the experience of other countries is instructive The studies in this volume offer Canadians information about approaches to funding political parties and elections in the United States and Western Europe The studies by Herbert Alexander and Robert Mutch examine how the United States has approached issues such as contribution limits and the disclosure of election finances The latter study provides explicit comparisons to Canada noting the constitutional role of the Supreme Court in each country Jane Jensen draws on Western European experience to propose and assess reforms for the public funding for party foundations is documented by Michael Pinto Duschinsky The studies approach their material from a historical perspective noting the uniqueness of the constitutions institutions and traditions of the countries reviewed The authors provide background essential to any consideration of whether foreign experience might serve as a model for Canada

Handbook of Research on New Media Applications in Public Relations and Advertising Esyok, Elif, 2020-08-07 As competition between companies increases the need for effective public relations and advertising campaigns becomes imperative to the success of the business However with the introduction of new media the nature of these campaigns has changed Today's consumers have more awareness and diversified ways to obtain knowledge and through new media they can provide feedback An understanding of how to utilize new media to promote and sustain the reputation of an organization is vital for its continued success The Handbook of Research on New Media Applications in Public Relations and Advertising is a pivotal reference source that provides vital research on the application of new media tools for running successful public relations and advertising campaigns While highlighting topics such as digital advertising online behavior and social networking this book is ideally designed for public relations officers advertisers marketers brand managers communication directors social media managers IT consultants researchers academicians students and industry practitioners

Interest Groups and Elections in Canada F. Leslie

Seidle,1991-01-01 The two studies in Interest Groups and Elections in Canada explore the nature and influence of special interest groups They consider different aspects of the question In the context of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms how can the laws intended to secure a fair electoral process be reconciled with freedom of expression Janet Hiebert reviews the limits on interest groups adopted in 1974 and amended in 1983 profiles the groups involved in the 1988 federal election and discusses relevant legislation and jurisprudence in the provinces and abroad She concludes that spending limits for parties and candidates will only be effective if there are also restrictions on independent expenditures during elections by groups and individuals Brian Tanguay and Barry Kay assess the influence attributed to locally oriented interest groups including by members of Parliament and conclude that these organizations have less influence on the political process than is the popular view The authors conclude that dissatisfaction is a key variable explaining the role of these interest groups and their activities during elections

Mass Media and Political Decision-Making Nino Landerer,2016-10-20 To what extent have political decision making processes become mediatized Based on this question the author analyzes media coverage and parliamentary actors MPs strategies and perceptions in three conflicted decision making processes in Switzerland Mediatization of politics refers to behavioral changes and adaptations of political actors institutions and processes that are related to mass media According to some scholars mediatization may lead to politics of immediacy conflict drama and personalization thereby challenging established institutions and processes in liberal democracies The quantitative and qualitative analyses of MPs strategies and perceptions provide new insights into how political actors may self mediatize in the advent of globalization and polarization Overall the book adopts an actor centric approach and shows that mediatization of politics is not a fate but a strategic choice
