Mass Media Unleashed Carl R. Ramey, 2007 Everyone complains about mass media but only the FCC and Congress are expressly empowered to do something about it and that's why America deserves better from its media policymakers Mass Media Unleashed touches on the key issues stirring the current debate over mass media policy such as consolidation the steady dismantling of regulatory standards the roles mass media must play but increasingly fail to perform in today's helter skelter world and the vastly different ways these media are now delivered to and used by busy on the go Americans Carl Ramey a long time Washington communications lawyer has observed the policymaking process up close and personal for thirty years Warning that time is running out for taking actions that will make a real difference Ramey shines a critical light on the massive transformation of government policy that has taken place since 1980 and has led to vast changes in today's electronic media more consolidation less public service and everything ruled by the bottom line Before the game is over Washington policymakers must step to the plate and hit a home run for America scrapping the old regulatory system and writing an entirely new policy script that for the first time is specifically designed to guarantee a broadcast service that is free local and dedicated to serving Americans as citizens not just as consumers This provocative read is a must for everyone concerned about mass media's responsibilities and the policies that shape them

 Luhmann, 2000-06-08 In The Reality of the Mass Media Luhmann extends his theory of social systems applied in his earlier works to the economy the political system art religion the sciences and law to an examination of the role of mass media in the constitution of social reality Luhmann argues that the system of mass media is a set of recursive self referential programmes of communication whose functions are not determined by the external values of truthfulness objectivity or knowledge nor by specific social interests or political directives Rather he contends that the system of mass media is regulated by the internal code information non information which enables the system to select its information news from its own environment and to communicate this information in accordance with its own reflexive criteria Despite its self referential quality however Luhmann describes the mass media as one of the key cognitive systems of modern society by means of which society constructs the illusion of its own reality The reality of mass media he argues allows societies to process information without destabilizing social roles or overburdening social actors It forms a broad reservoir memory of options for the future co ordination of action and it provides parameters for the stabilization of political expectations In these respects it has a crucial function in the general self reproduction of society as it produces a continuous self description of the world around which modern society can orientate itself In his discussion of mass media Luhmann elaborates a theory of communication in which communication is seen not as the act of a particular consciousness nor the medium of integrative social norms but merely the technical codes through which systemic operations arrange and perpetuate themselves This book will be of great interest to third year students graduate students and scholars in sociology politics social and political theory media and cultural studies
