Google and the Law Aurelio Lopez-Tarruella, 2012-02-23 Google s has proved to be one of the most successful business models in today s knowledge economy Its services and applications have become part of our day to day life However Google has repeatedly been accused of acting outside the law in the development of services such as Adwords Googlebooks or YouTube One of the main purposes of this book is to assess whether those accusations are well founded But more important than that this book provides a deeper reflection are current legal systems adapted to business models such as that of Google or are they conceived for an industrial economy Do the various lawsuits involving Google show an evolution of the existing legal framework that might favour the flourishing of other knowledge economy businesses Or do they simply reflect that Google has gone too far What lessons can other knowledge based businesses learn from all the disputes in which Google has been or is involved This book is valuable reading for legal practitioners and academics in the field of information technologies and intellectual property law economists interested in knowledge economy business models and sociologists interested in internet and social networks Dr Aurelio Lopez Tarruella is Senior Lecturer in Private International Law at the University of Alicante Spain

Hegemony, Mass Media and Cultural Studies Sean Johnson Andrews, 2016-09-09 In the early part of the 20th century state and corporate propagandists used the mass media to promote the valor and rightness of ascending U S hegemony on the global stage Critics who challenged these practices of mass persuasion were quickly discredited by the emergent field of communication research a field explicitly attempting to measure and thereby improve the efficacy of media messages Three strains of critical cultural and media theory were especially engaged with the continued critique of the role of commodified industrially produced mass distributed culture the Cultural Marxism of the Frankfurt School the Cultural Materialism and active audiences of Cultural Studies and Critical Political Economy of Communication This book examines these three paradigms illustrating the major tensions and points of agreement between them particularly in relation to the dominant paradigms of administrative social science research and media ecology within communication and media studies more broadly From the perspective of the emergent cultural environment Hegemony American Mass Media and Cultural Studies argues that the original points of disagreement between these paradigms appear less contradictory than before In doing so it offers a new theoretical toolkit for those seeking to understand the current struggles for a more just more democratic media culture and society

Media, Identity, and Struggle in Twenty-First-Century China Rachel Murphy, Vanessa L. Fong, 2013-09-13 How are different groups of people such as sex workers migrant workers rural cadres and homosexuals represented in China's media How accurately do representations created by the media reflect the lived experiences of Chinese people Do Chinese people accept the representations and messages disseminated by the media Can they use the media to portray their own interests How are media practices in China changing Have new technologies and increased access to international media opened up new spaces for struggle in China The essays in this volume address these questions by using a combination of ethnography and textual analysis and by exploring representation in and usage of a range of media including instant messaging the internet television films magazines and newspapers The essays highlight highlights the richness diversity and sometimes contradictory tendencies of the meanings and consequences of media representations in China The volume cautions against approaches that take the representations created by the media in China at face value and against oversimplified assumptions about the motivations and agency of players in the complex struggles that occur between the media the Chinese state and Chinese citizens

Fadipe, Phillip Mpofu, 2024-04-01 Drawing on examples from across the continent this volume examines socially significant aspects of contemporary African popular culture including music cultures fandoms and community mass and digital media to demonstrate how neoliberal politics and market forces shape the cultural landscape and vice versa Contributors investigate the role that the media politicians and corporate interests play in shaping that landscape highlight the crucial role of the African people in the production and circulation of popular culture more broadly and furthermore demonstrate how popular culture can be used as a tool to resist oppressive regimes and challenge power structures in the African context Scholars of political communication cultural studies and African studies will find this book particularly useful

Global Media Studies

Toby Miller, Marwan M. Kraidy, 2016-10-10 Global Media Studies is unique in its coverage of places, peoples, institutions and discourses. Toby Miller and Marwan M. Kraidy provide a comprehensive how-to guide to the study of media going far beyond the established English language literature and drawing on the best methods and research from around the world. They look at political economy, global policymaking and governance and the past and present manifestations of cultural imperialism. In addition to providing a survey of the field, the book introduces a new form of textual analysis with a special focus on reality television as well as models of audience research. The authors include original analyses of the US, European, Latin American and Arab worlds and case studies of mobile telephony, the impact of US media and reality television. This original and uniquely global textbook will be an essential resource for students of global media and international communication. Mass Media and Modern Warfare Dr Greg Simons, 2013-03-28 Mass media are essential to democratic society; in contrast, the War on Terror has been interpreted as an assault on democracy and freedom by Islamic fundamentalists. The building and maintenance of public support is essential in modern warfare due to the increasing politicization of warfare where losses and gains are measured in political rather than military terms. And if progress cannot be demonstrated during a war, then by default one is assumed to be losing. Greg Simons tackles the complicated yet essential role of mass media in society. Taking the Global War on Terror as a prime example, the author adopts a multidisciplinary approach to analyze the various facets of war and the role of the media within it. Assessing in particular the Russian fight against terrorism, this book provides a broader perspective and understanding of contemporary struggles. Rethinking the 'Coloured Revolutions' David Lane, Stephen White, 2013-09-13 The communist world was supposed to have had its revolution in 1989. But the demise of the Soviet Union came two years later, at the end of 1991, and then perplexingly a series of irregular executive changes began to take place the following decade in countries that were already postcommunist. The focus in this collection is the changes that took place in Serbia, Georgia, Ukraine and Kyrgyzstan between 2000 and 2005 that have together been called the coloured revolutions of no particular colour in Serbia but Rose in Georgia, Orange in Ukraine and Tulip in Kyrgyzstan. Apart from exploring political change in the coloured revolution countries themselves, the contributors to this collection focus on countries that did not experience this kind of irregular executive change but which might otherwise be comparable: Belarus and Kazakhstan among them, and on reactions to democracy promotion in Russia and China. Throughout, an effort is made to avoid taking the coloured revolutions at face value; however, they may have been presented by local leaders and foreign governments with their own agendas and to place them within the wider literature of comparative politics. This book was previously published as a special issue of Journal of Communist Studies and Transition Politics.
