

3 Generations of Mass Media: Past, Present & Future - Essay Sample Essay

Introduction

Past, present, and future of mass media consists of three generations. In these generations, different means of communication got used to obtain information. In the past, which gets referred to as the first generation, oral communication was the primary medium of communication. This is passing information from one person to another. Traditional consist of newspapers, magazines, newsletters, billboards, scholarly journals, fliers, and pamphlets. Other conventional media include electronic media such as movies, radio, audio recording, televisions, and video recording.

The first and second generations differ. In the second generation, that is the generation we are in. We use the internet in browsing websites, browsing the web on the phone, and browsing social media. Whereas in the first generation that is the past generation, there was a generation known as magazine generation. In this generation, people were believed to read magazines frequently. The other age was the television generation, where people watched the television often to obtain information.

Secondly, in the generation we are living now, social media is used by many people to advertise products. Hence many people access the information quickly and go ahead on enquiring about the products, and some end up purchasing the products if the product meets their desire. Compared to the previous generation where the advertisement gets posted in newspapers. The information was not easily accessible to many people since many of them did not have the knowledge to read and write.

The internet is building more powerful societies and communities around the world. Social networks, mobile apps, and online services are playing a significant role in online education. Through online learning, students can research what they don't understand. This has positively contributed to making studies easy. Another role played by social media is unity. Many people from different parts of the world and diverse backgrounds interact in the Face book creating friendship, and in many cases, some meet their spouses through social media.

The last role played by online services is awareness. This of the state of being aware, being conscious of the dangers of things you are about to do like the awareness of what spreads coronavirus. Therefore I wish to recommend people from the previous generation to learn about it since it the fastest medium of communication. It is also fun. Meeting new friends on social media can also run a business online, which is easy to manage. Reading online is also easy.

The internet has allowed us to express ourselves than in the previous generation. We can share every personal experience on Face book. We can start expressing our talents through writing so that we can get followers from all over the world. We can post our photography skills on Instagram, and we can also use silly emojis as we chat with friends. The internet has also played the role of the business world. An international organization can now manage businesses scattered in different countries. People can now work from home, thanks to the internet.

Mass Media Past Present Future:

History and Future of Mass Media David Demers, 2007 This book argues that the no Marxists mostly have it wrong Although corporate media are structurally organized to maximize profits and produce content that generally helps elites achieve their goals this does not mean corporate media have less capacity to facilitate social change than entrepreneurial or other forms of media In fact historical evidence and comparative critical studies presented in this book show that mass media become more not less critical of dominant power groups institutions and value systems as they become more corporatized This proposition is part of a larger theoretical model that integrates the role of both social structure and human agency in explaining the persistence of modern capitalism The structural part of the theory also enables scholars to make predictions about the future of mass media including the ideas that the Internet is stealing some of the mediating power of traditional mass media and the market power of global media will grow in absolute terms but will shrink in relative terms because of increasing competition from new and traditional media
