Eating the Ocean Brian Payne, 2022-12-02 During the first half of the twentieth century Canadian fisheries regularly produced more fish than markets could absorb driving down profits and wages To address this both industry and government sought to stimulate domestic consumption via increased advertising In Eating the Ocean Brian Payne explores how government funded marketing called upon Canadian housewives to prepare more seafood meals to improve family health and aid an industry central to Canadian identity and heritage The goal was first to make seafood a central element of a wholesome diet as a solution to a perceived nutritional crisis and second to aid industry recovery and growth while decreasing Canadian fisheries dependency on foreign markets But fishery managers and policymakers fundamentally miscalculated consumer demand wrongly assuming that Canadians could and would eat more seafood Fisheries continued to extract more fish than the environment and the market could sustain and the collapse of the nation's fisheries that we are now seeing has as much to do with failed assessments of market demand as it does with faulty extraction practices Using internal communications between industry leaders and Ottawa bureaucrats as well as advertising and promotional material published in the nation's leading magazines national and local newspapers and radio programming Eating the Ocean traces the flawed understanding of not only supply but demand a misguided gamble that caused fisheries to become the most mismanaged resource economy in early twentieth century Canada

Preserving Family Recipes Valerie J. Frey,2015-11-01 Heirloom dishes and family food traditions are rich sources of nostalgia and provide vivid ways to learn about our families past yet they can be problematic Many family recipes and food traditions are never documented in written or photographic form existing only as unwritten know how and lore that vanishes when a cook dies Even when recipes are written down they often fail to give the tricks and tips that would allow another cook to accurately replicate the dish Unfortunately recipes are also often damaged as we plunk Grandma s handwritten cards on the countertop next to a steaming pot or a splattering mixer shortening their lives This book is a guide for gathering adjusting supplementing and safely preserving family recipes and for interviewing relatives collecting oral histories and conducting kitchen visits to document family food traditions from the everyday to special occasions It blends commonsense tips with sound archival principles helping you achieve effective results while avoiding unnecessary pitfalls Chapters are also dedicated to unfamiliar regional or ethnic cooking challenges as well as to working with recipes that are orphans surrogates or terribly outdated Whether you simply want to save a few accurate recipes help yesterday s foodways evolve so they are relevant for today s table or create an extensive family cookbook this guidebook will help you to savor your memories

Gift Upon Gift Dr. Sherri Brown,2010-08-11 This study builds upon recent scholarship exploring the significance of the Old Testament covenant metaphor in the Johannine writings By examining the Gospel of John as a whole through a narrative lens and focusing on several key dialogues the author sheds light on the dialogical nature of the revelatory process and the central role of covenant for the Fourth Evangelist Also incorporating recent scholarship that suggests the evangelist understood himself to be writing Scripture based upon fulfillment language present in summary statements across the Gospel and demonstrating a relationship between the Fourth Gospel and ancient drama that renders speech as action this work attempts to construct a new paradigm for reading John against the background of the Old Testament covenant metaphor The claim is twofold the Johannine story of Jesus Christ is a carefully crafted literary treatise theologically underpinned by discourse on covenant and Scripture and the Fourth Evangelist provides catechesis to a believing community on the nature of its faith in the God of Israel s ongoing covenant with the created order By grasping the theological fabric of the evangelist the richness of the dialogue and imagery of his Gospel is allowed to have its full voice in terms of covenant fulfillment and the ongoing commitment of God to a believing people Doing Research/Reading Research Paul Dowling,Andrew Brown,2012-12-06 This bestselling text enables beginning researchers to organise and evaluate the research they read and to plan and implement small scale research projects of their own It gives structured practical guidance on the development of a research question techniques of data collection qualitative and quantitative forms of analysis the writing and dissemination of research The authors present research as a principled activity that begins with the establishing and structuring of theoretical and empirical fields and research findings as serving to ask questions of educational practice rather than directing it This revised and updated second edition includes a new chapter dealing with the complex issue of research ethics It also includes consideration of digital technologies and new media both as settings of research and research tools the chapters on qualitative and quantitative analysis have been expanded and the annotated bibliography updated The authors have been active researchers in educational studies for more than twenty years They have also supervised numerous doctoral and masters dissertations and taught research methods programmes in various higher education institutions around the world as well as in the Institute of Education University of London

Domesticity Sarah Walden,2018-04-25 Tasteful Domesticity demonstrates how women marginalized by gender race ethnicity and class used the cookbook as a rhetorical space in which to conduct public discussions of taste and domesticity Taste discourse engages cultural values as well as physical constraints and thus serves as a bridge between the contested space of the self and the body particularly for women in the nineteenth century Cookbooks represent important contact zones of social philosophies cultural beliefs and rhetorical traditions and through their rhetoric we witness women s roles as republican mothers sentimental evangelists wartime fundraisers home economists and social reformers Beginning in the early republic and tracing the cookbook through the publishing boom of the nineteenth century the Civil War and Reconstruction the Progressive era and rising racial tensions of the early twentieth century Sarah W Walden examines the role of taste as an evolving rhetorical strategy that allowed diverse women to engage in public discourse through published domestic texts

Second with the aid of Mediterranean anthropology it sets out an approach that helps us to interpret a selection of narratives with a cultural understanding close to that of an ancient Israelite Powerful stories such as those of Tamar and Judah in Genesis 38 Hannah in 1 Samuel 1 2 Saul and David in 1 Samuel David and Bathsheba in 2 Samuel 10 12 and Judith burst into new light when understood in closer relation to their original audience Interpreted in this way these narratives allow us to refresh the memory that links us with pivotal stories in Jewish and Christian identities they disclose more ample possibilities for being human they foster our capacity for intercultural understanding and they provide aesthetic pleasure from their embodying plots of great imaginative power Reading is My Window Megan Sweeney, 2010 Drawing on extensive interviews with ninety four women prisoners Megan Sweeney examines how incarcerated women use available reading materials to come to terms with their pasts negotiate their present experiences and reach toward different futures
