External Research United States. Department of State. External Research Division,1954      External Research. ER List United States. Department of State. External Research Division,1952      China Michael Dillon,2010-07-30 China's transformation in the last few decades has been perhaps the most remarkable and most controversial development in modern history Barely a century removed from the struggling and outdated Qing Empire China has managed to reinvent itself on an unprecedented scale from Empire to Communist state to hybrid capitalist superpower Yet the full implications of China's rapid march to modernity are not widely understood particularly the effects of China's meteoric rise on the nation's many ethnic minorities China A Modern History is the definitive guide to this complex contemporary phenomenon Deng Xiaoping's 1980s policy of reform and opening which saw China enter the world market is only the most recent in a series of dramatic shifts that have transformed Chinese society over the past 150 years China A Modern History explores these contrasts in detail while also highlighting the enduring values which have informed Chinese identity for millennia Michael Dillon's China A Modern History is essential reading for those interested in the past present and future course of one of the world's great nations Clearly and compellingly written this will stand as the best introduction to this spectacular and still unfinished story

The Early Modern Travels of Manchu Mårten Söderblom Saarela, 2020-06-19 A linguistic and historical study of the Manchu script in the early modern world Manchu was a language first written down as part of the Qing state building project in Northeast Asia in the early seventeenth century After the Qing invasion of China in 1644 and for the next two and a half centuries Manchu was the language of state in one of the early modern world's great powers Its prominence and novelty attracted the interest of not only Chinese literati but also foreign scholars Yet scholars in Europe and Japan and occasionally even within China itself were compelled to study the language without access to a native speaker Jesuit missionaries in Beijing sent Chinese books on Manchu to Europe where scholars struggled to represent it in an alphabet compatible with Western pedagogy and printing technology In southern

China meanwhile an isolated phonologist with access to Jesuit books relied on expositions of the Roman alphabet to make sense of the Manchu script When Chinese textbooks and dictionaries of Manchu eventually reached Japan scholars there used their knowledge of Dutch to understand Manchu In The Early Modern Travels of Manchu M rten S derblom Saarela focuses on outsiders both within and beyond the Qing empire who had little interaction with Manchu speakers but took an interest in the strange new language of a rising world power He shows how through observation inference and reference to received ideas on language and writing intellectuals in southern China Russia France Chos n Korea and Tokugawa Japan deciphered the Manchu script and explores the uses to which it was put for recording sounds and arranging words

Origins of Moral-political Philosophy in Early China Tao Jiang, 2021 This book rewrites the story of classical Chinese philosophy which has always been considered the single most creative and vibrant chapter in the history of Chinese philosophy Works attributed to Confucius Mozi Mencius Laozi Zhuangzi Xunzi Han Feizi and many others represent the very origins of moral and political thinking in China As testimony to their enduring stature in recent decades many Chinese intellectuals and even leading politicians have turned to those classics especially Confucian texts for alternative or complementary sources of moral authority and political legitimacy Therefore philosophical inquiries into core normative values embedded in those classical texts are crucial to the ongoing scholarly discussion about China as China turns more culturally inward It can also contribute to the spirited contemporary debate about the nature of philosophical reasoning especially in the non Western traditions This book offers a new narrative and interpretative framework about the origins of moral political philosophy that tracks how the three normative values humaneness justice and personal freedom were formulated reformulated and contested by early Chinese philosophers in their effort to negotiate the relationship among three distinct domains the personal the familial and the political Such efforts took place as those thinkers were reimagining a new moral political order debating its guiding norms and exploring possible sources within the context of an evolving understanding of Heaven and its relationship with the humans Tao Jiang argues that the competing visions in that debate can be characterized as a contestation between partialist humaneness and impartialist justice as the guiding norm for the newly imagined moral political order with the Confucians the Mohists the Laoists and the so called fajia thinkers being the major participants constituting the mainstream philosophical project during this period Thinkers lined up differently along the justice humaneness spectrum with earlier ones maintaining some continuity between the two normative values or at least trying to accommodate both to some extent while later ones leaning more toward their exclusivity in the political public domain Zhuangzi and the Zhuangists were the outliers of the mainstream moral political debate who rejected the very parameter of humaneness versus justice in that discourse They were a lone voice advocating personal freedom but the Zhuangist expressions of freedom were self restricted to the margins of the political world and the interiority of one s heartmind Such a take can shed new light on how the Zhuangist approach to personal freedom would profoundly impact the

the first volume of a three volume set on the indigenization of Christianity in modern China this book focuses on the presence of Christianity during the late Qing dynasty and the early twentieth century discussing the early waves of Christian influence key watersheds in its history Over the course of its growth in modern China Christianity has faced twists and turns in its embedding in Chinese society and indigenous culture This three volume book delineates the genesis and trajectory of

Christianity's indigenization in China over the course of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries highlighting the actions of Chinese Christians and the relationship between the development of Christianity and modern Chinese history In this volume the author discusses early missionary works from both foreign missionaries and local churches both of which were influential in rendering Christianity more present and influential in China and which paved the way for further indigenization The book then expounds on the thoughts and practices of indigenizing Christianity prompted by historical events in the early twentieth century including the independent movement of the Chinese Christian Church and religious reforms that were undertaken to reach greater accommodation with Chinese society The book will appeal to scholars and students interested in the history of Christianity in China and modern Chinese history Modern Chinese Parts of Speech Guo Rui, 2019-03-04

What is the essence of a part of speech Why is it difficult to classify parts of speech What are the bases and criteria for classifying them How should they be classified In doing so how should a conversional word be dealt with How should nominalization be treated These are just some of the questions answered in this book The classification of parts of speech in Chinese is a tough job due to the language's lack of morphological differences Based on the analysis of nearly 40 000 Chinese characters this book proposes that essentially a part of speech is not of distributional type and that its intrinsic basis is an expressional function and the semantic type Essentially large categories such as substantive words predicate words and modification words are classes of words classified according to their expressional functions Basic categories such as nouns verbs and adjectives are classes that combine semantic types with syntactical functions In classifying parts of speech the book pays attention not to identifying a single distributive characteristic that is internally universal and externally exclusive but to clustering the grammatical functions that have the same classification value through the reflection representation relationship among distribution expressional function and semantic type distribution reflects expressional function and semantic type which are in turn represented as distribution thereby identifying the classification criteria It uses distributional compatibility and the correlation principle to analyze which distributional differences represent differences in parts of speech and which do not In this way grammatical functions that have equal classification values are collected into one equivalent function cluster each of which represents one part of speech The book uses four strategies to classify parts of speech namely the homogeneity strategy the homomorphical strategy the priority homomorphical strategy and the consolidation strategy It will be a valuable reference for Chinese linguistic researchers and students as well as Chinese learners Dictionary of

from Chinese reform and development The choice of entries in the Dictionary seeks to embody the very Chinese characteristics of economics and the combination of theory and practice is illuminated Furthermore the dictionary explores examples of scientific achievements that traditional economics has brought forward and how they fit and unify within both a Chinese as well as an international context

Space, Politics, and Cultural Representation in Modern China Enhua Zhang, 2016-12-08 Regarding revolution as a spatial practice this book explores modes of spatial construction in modern China through a panoramic overview of major Chinese revolutionary events and nuanced analysis of cultural representations Examining the relationship between revolution space and culture in modern China the author takes five spatially significant revolutionary events as case studies the territorial dispute between Russia and the Qing dynasty in 1892 the Land Reform in the 1920s the Long March 1934-36 the mainland Taiwan split in 1949 and the Cultural Revolution 1966-76 and analyses how revolution constructs conceives and transforms space Using materials associated with these events including primarily literature as well as maps political treatises historiography plays film and art the book argues that in addition to redirecting the flow of Chinese history revolutionary movements operate in and on space in three main ways maintaining territorial sovereignty redefining social relations and governing an imaginary realm Arguing for reconsideration of revolution as a reorganization of space as much as time this book will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese culture society history and literature
