

PART TWO Theory of the Concept

The analysis of the judgment leads back to concepts as their ultimate components. However, the terms that are associated with these concepts as components of the judgment—the terms subject-concept, predicate-concept, and copula-concept—directly designate not special types of concepts, but only the position of the concepts in the judgment. The further investigation of the judgment now necessitates that we identify what types of concepts in general are capable of being introduced into a judgment, and what types of concepts must necessarily be present in the judgment; what type of concept can occupy the position of subject-concepts, what type can occupy the position of predicate-concepts, and other similar questions. To be able to answer this, however, we must first recognize the different possible kinds of concepts. And to accomplish this, the concepts themselves must first be examined.

Since not only judgments, but other kinds of thoughts as well, consist of concepts (e.g., questions, valuations, wishes, suggestions, requests, and commands), the general investigation of thoughts finally leads back necessarily to the investigation of concepts. Thus, the theory of the concept has a foundational significance not only for the theory of the judgment, but for logic in general as the science of thoughts.

The analysis of the judgment has already led us to concepts that—in contrast to those like the subject- and predicate-concept, which mean some objectivity—mean no objectivity at all, but, as with the copula-concept, only perform a logical function (in this case, the referring- and assertion-function). We shall eventually see that there are a great many of such merely functioning, logical concepts. Through consideration of this type of concept we mean to call attention to the fact that, even in the case of object-concepts, concepts not only mean objects but also invariably perform a particular logical function. The consideration of these logical functions will, for the first time, bring the necessary clarity to the structure of thoughts and raise the theory of the concept above the outdated standard on which it still, unfortunately, rests. Traditional logic has examined exclusively object-concepts and, for this reason, remains mired in many obscurities. Let us begin, therefore, with a consideration of object-concepts. As we shall later see, the findings we reach will for the most part not be valid for the other species of concepts.

FIRST CHAPTER Concepts, Words, Objects

Concepts can form the meaning-content of particular words. The words themselves are not the concepts. Words consist of letters, concepts do not. Different words can express one and the same concept; one and the same word can bear distinct concepts as its different meanings. But the fact that concepts in general form the meaning-content of words is external and accidental to the concepts themselves. Concepts are not, by their nature, the meanings of words. Nowhere in the human act of thinking are concepts necessarily bound up with words. Often, we may even lack a word for a concept that we already have in mind and have to search for it.

James, Randi Rashkover, 2021-03-30 Peter Ochs is one of today's most influential Jewish philosophers and the cofounder of the practice of Scriptural Reasoning. Signs of Salvation: A Festschrift for Peter Ochs celebrates Ochs' deep and wide-ranging contributions to theology, philosophy, interreligious dialogue, and conflict resolution studies. The volume offers a rich and rigorous introduction to Peter Ochs' extensive body of work and his philosophy of scriptural pragmatism. In addition, it presents engaging essays by Ochs' colleagues, friends, and former students who reflect on the impact his work has had on their academic field and their own thought. Contributors raise questions about the task of philosophy and the nature of reasoning, the appropriate function and limits of the Western academy, the practice of Scriptural Reasoning, and its significance for interreligious dialogue and the future of modern theology. With contributions from Robert Gibbs, Nicholas Adams, Daniel Weiss, Jim Fodor, Jacob Goodson, Emily Filler, Rumi Ahmed, Basit Koshul, Nauman Faizi, Rachel Muers, Eliot Wolfson, Steven Kepnes, Shaul Magid, Mike Highton, Tom Greggs, Susannah Ticciati, Stanley Hauerwas.

The Verilog PLI Handbook Stuart Sutherland, 2013-04-18 The Verilog Programming Language Interface, commonly called the Verilog PU, is one of the more powerful features of Verilog. The PU provides a means for both hardware designers and software engineers to interface their own programs to commercial Verilog simulators. Through this interface, a Verilog simulator can be customized to perform virtually any engineering task desired. Just a few of the common uses of the PU include interfacing Verilog simulations to C language models, adding custom graphical tools to a simulator, reading and writing proprietary file formats from within a simulation, performing test coverage analysis during simulation, and so forth. The applications possible with the Verilog PLI are endless. Intended audience: this book is written for digital design engineers with a background in the Verilog Hardware Description Language and a fundamental knowledge of the C programming language. It is expected that the reader has a basic knowledge of hardware engineering, specifically digital design of ASIC and FPGA technologies. Is familiar with the Verilog Hardware Description Language (HDL) and can write models of hardware circuits in Verilog, can write simulation test fixtures in Verilog, and can run at least one Verilog logic simulator. Knows basic C language programming, including the use of functions, pointers, structures, and file I/O. Explanations of the concepts and terminology of digital.

Database Systems for Advanced Applications Xiaofang Zhou, Haruo Yokota, Ke Deng, Qing Liu, 2009-03-21 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 14th International Conference on Database Systems for Advanced Applications (DASFAA 2009) held in Brisbane, Australia, in April 2009. The 39 revised full papers and 22 revised short papers presented together with 3 invited keynote papers, 9 demonstration papers, 3 tutorial abstracts, and one panel abstract were carefully reviewed and selected from 186 submissions. The papers are organized in topical sections on uncertain data and ranking, sensor networks, graphs, RFID, and data streams, skyline and rising stars, parallel and distributed processing, mining and analysis, XML query, privacy, XML keyword search and ranking, Web and Web services, XML data processing, and multimedia.
