The Triumph and Trade of Egyptian Objects in Rome Stephanie Pearson,2021-04-06 From gleaming hardstone statues to bright frescoes the unexpected and often spectacular Egyptian objects discovered in Roman Italy have long presented an interpretive challenge How they shaped and were shaped by religion politics and identity formation has now been well researched But one crucial function of these objects remains to be explored their role as precious goods in a collector s economy The Romans imported and recreated Egyptian goods in the most opulent materials available gold gems expensive wood ivory luxurious textiles and displayed them like true treasures This is due in part to the way Romans encountered these items as argued in this book first as dazzling spolia from the war against Cleopatra then as costly wares exchanged over the expanding Roman trade routes In this respect Romans treated Egyptian art surprisingly similarly to Greek art By examining the concrete mechanisms through which Egyptian objects were acquired and displayed in Rome this book offers a new understanding of this impressive material at the crossroads of Hellenistic Roman and Egyptian culture which have today become obsolete The costumes surveyed in this first volume establish the fact that irrespective of distant geographic locations beyond religious and ethnic diversity and throughout thousands of years of history and successive civilizations Nubians Nile Valley peasants Bedouins and oasis dwellers both Christian and Muslim were heirs to the same legacy Old and new emblems were melted into one tradition defining a multifaceted but harmonious Egyptian identity This tradition provides undeniable and tangible proof of the unity of the country and bears witness to the fact that throughout history these various communities were the different parts of a multicultural and pluralistic nation
