a context greatly enhanced by the vast archival materials that Smithson's widow Nancy Holt donated to the Archives of American Art in 1987. The archive provides Reynolds with the remnants of Smithson's working life: magazines, postcards from other artists, notebooks, and perhaps most important, his library from which she reconstructs the physical and conceptual world that Smithson inhabited. Reynolds explores the relation of Smithson's art-making, thinking about art-making, writing, and interaction with other artists to the articulated ideology and discreet assumptions that determined the parameters of artistic practice of the time. A central focus of Reynolds's analysis is Smithson's fascination with the blind spots at the center of established ways of seeing and thinking about culture. For Smithson, New Jersey was such a blind spot, and he returned there again and again, alone and with fellow artists, to make art that through its location alone undermined assumptions about what and more important, where art should be. For those who guarded the integrity of the established art world, New Jersey was elsewhere, but for Smithson, elsewheres were the defining, if often forgotten, locations on the map of contemporary culture.

Art History as Social Praxis David Craven, 2017-08-21. Art History as Social Praxis: The Collected Writings of David Craven brings together more than thirty essays that chart the development of Craven's voice as an unorthodox Marxist who applied historical materialism to the study of modern art. This book demonstrates the range and versatility of David Craven's praxis as a democratic socialist art historian who assessed the essential role the visual arts play in imagining more just and equitable societies. The essays collected here reveal Craven's lifelong commitment to exposing interstices between western and non-western cultures by researching the reciprocating influences between First and Third World artists, critics, and historians.

Urban Maps Richard Brook, Nick Dunn, 2016-12-05. This book concerns the city and the devices that define the urban environment by their presence, representation, or interpretation. The texts offer an interdisciplinary discourse and critique of the complex systems, artifacts, interventions, and evidences that can inform our understanding of urban territories on surfaces in the margins or within voids. The diverse media of arts practices as well as commercial branding are used to explore narratives that reveal latent characteristics of urban situations that conventional architectural inquiry is unable to do. The subjects covered are presented within a wider framework of urban theory into which are embedded case study examples that outline the practices, processes, and interpretations of each theme. The chapters provide a contemporary reading of urban socio-cultural conditions using mapping as a lens to explore and communicate the social phenomena and lived experiences of the dynamic and temporal city. Mapping is developed as a form of critical instrumentality to expose, record, and contribute to the understanding of the singular essences of space, place, and networks by thematic, cognitive, and experiential modes of investigation.

Natural Art, Syntax of Landscape Udo Weilacher, 2007-10-05. Duisburg Nord Landscape Park in Germany, the Plateau de Kirchberg in Luxembourg, Parco Dora in Turin, Italy, and numerous other projects designed and built by Peter Latz and Partners stand as examples of an up-to-date and intelligent approach to alternative environmental technologies and the reclamation of extensive industrial landscapes. In Peter Latz's landscape architecture, ecological and social concerns are translated into an individual aesthetic language that aims to achieve a timeless quality The different layers and meanings of the sites rich in history are revealed and woven into networks of spatial and temporal relationships that follow rules of their own the syntax of landscape A sense of process and dynamism in sustainable landscape structures characterises the works works that are open for change they are spaces in development not parks as finite set pieces Peter Latz is professor emeritus of the Technische Universität München and has held guest professorships at the University of Pennsylvania and Harvard University Udo Weilacher is professor for Landscape Architecture and Industrial Landscape at the Technische Universität München
