Galaty,Charles Watkinson,2007-03-14 Archaeological knowledge is not created in a vacuum and our understanding of the past is profoundly affected by political ideologies In fact a relationship between politics and archaeology develops to some degree in every nation regardless of social and economic circumstances The connections between politics and archaeology become most visible however within a totalitarian dictatorship when a dictator seeks to create and legitimize new state supported ideologies Any dictator may attempt to control and exploit the past often by directly controlling archaeologists The degree to which a nation s archaeological system may continue to be affected after the fall of the dictator depends upon both the previous regime s ideological position and its level of dependence upon archaeology and the response of archaeologists to the regime collectively and individually Archaeology Under Dictatorship demonstrates that the study of archaeology as it evolved under modern dictatorships is today more than ever of critical importance For example in many European countries those who practiced archaeology under dictatorship are retiring or dying In some places their intellectual legacy is being pursued uncritically by a younger generation of archaeologists Now is the time therefore to understand how archaeologists have supported and sometimes subverted dictatorial political ideologies In studying archaeology as practiced under totalitarian dictatorship that most harsh of political systems light is shed on the issue of politics and archaeology generally This volume aims to provide a theoretical basis for understanding the specific effects of totalitarian dictatorship upon the practice of archaeology both during and after the dictator s reign The nine essays explore experiences from every corner of the Mediterranean from the heartlands of Italy Spain and Greece to the less well known shores of Albania and Libya With its wide range of case studies and strong theoretical orientation this volume is a major advance in the study of the history and politics of archaeology The Mediterranean focus will also make it thought provoking reading for classical archaeologists and historians The Invention of Humanity Siep Stuurman, 2017-02-20 For much of history strangers were seen as barbarians seldom as fellow human beings The notion of common humanity had to be invented Drawing on global thinkers Siep Stuurman traces ideas of equality and difference across continents and civilizations from antiquity to present day debates about human rights and the clash of civilizations
