Piercing the Fog of War Martin Samuels, 2019-05-14 Since the late 1970s anglophone and German military literature has been fascinated by the Wehrmacht's command system especially the practice of Auftragstaktik There have been many descriptions of the doctrine and examinations of its historical origins as well as unflattering comparisons with the approaches of the British and American armies prior to their adoption of Mission Command in the late 1980s Almost none of these however have sought to understand the different approaches to command in the context of a fundamental characteristic of warfare friction This would be like trying to understand flight without any reference to aerodynamics Inherently flawed yet this is the norm in the military literature This book seeks to address that gap First the nature of friction and the potential command responses to it are considered This allows the development of a typology of eight command approaches each approach then being tested to identify its relative effectiveness and requirements for success Second the British and German armies doctrines of command during the period are examined in order to reveal similarities and differences in relation to their perspective on the nature of warfare and the most appropriate responses The experience of Erwin Rommel both as a young subaltern fighting the Italians in 1917 and then as a newly appointed divisional commander against the French in 1940 is used to test the expression of the German doctrine in practice Third the interaction of these different command doctrines is explored in case studies of two key armoured battles Amiens in August 1918 and Arras in May 1940 allowing the strengths and weaknesses of each to be highlighted and the typology to be tested The result is intended to offer a new and deeper understanding of both the nature of command as a response to friction and the factors that need to be in place in order to allow a given command approach to achieve success The book therefore in two ways represents a sequel to the author's earlier work Command or Control Command Training and Tactics in the British and German Armies 1888 1918 London Cass 1995 in that it both takes the conceptual model of command developed there to a deeper level and also takes the story from the climax of 1918 up to the

Mitcham,2007-08-16 The most famous battles of one of World War II's most legendary commanders Told largely from Rommel's perspective using his papers and letters In a series of battles marked by daring raids and quick armored thrusts against a numerically superior enemy Erwin Rommel the notorious Desert Fox and his Afrika Korps waged one of World War II's toughest campaigns in the North African desert in 1942 The Axis campaign climaxed in June with the recapture of Tobruk a triumph that netted 33 000 prisoners and earned Rommel a field marshal's baton By fall however after setbacks at Alam Halfa and the 2 battles of El Alamein the Afrika Korps teetered on the brink of defeat which would come in Tunisia 6 months later      Leadership Matters Thomas E. Cronin,Michael A. Genovese,2015-11-17 Some leaders fundamentally alter the status quo whilst others guide quietly Most leadership books emphasise specific rules but Tom Cronin and Michael Genovese see leadership as filled with paradox

Leadership Matters offers a different view of leadership one that builds community and responds creatively to new situations Cronin and Genovese argue that leadership is about more than just charisma and set leaders on to a different path to unleash the power of paradox Military Review ,1991
