H. Schneider, K. H. Rubin, J. E. Ledingham, 2012-12-06 Willard W Hartup This volume amounts to an anniversary collection It was 50 years ago that Lois Jack 1934 published the findings from what most investigators consider to be the first intervention study in this area The experiment later replicated and extended by Marjorie Page 1936 and Gertrude Chittenden 1942 concerned ascendant behavior in preschool children which was defined to include a The pursuit of one s own purposes against interference and b directing the behavior of others Individual differences in ascendance were assumed to have some stability across time and hence to be important in personality development But ascendance variations were also viewed as a function of the immediate situation Among the conditions assumed to determine ascendance were the individual s status in the group as expressed in others attitudes toward him his conception of these attitudes and his previously formed social habits Jack 1934 p 10 Dr Jack s main interest was to show that nonascendant children identified on the basis of observations in the laboratory with another child were different from their more ascendant companions in one important respect They lacked self confidence And having demonstrated that Dr Jack devised a procedure for teaching the knowledge and skill to nonascendant children that the play materials required She guessed correctly that this training would bring about an increase in the ascendance scores of these children Assessing Risk Stephen Blumenthal, Heather Wood, Andrew Williams, 2018-03-05 Assessing Risk A Relational Approach offers the practitioner a novel framework for understanding the complex and subtle issues involved in assessing and managing risks related to violence and sexual offending The authors draw on their considerable experience working with high risk individuals in assessment and treatment They have for many years consulted to practitioners in forensic mental health services and the criminal justice system and taught renowned courses at the Tavistock and Portman NHS Foundation Trust This book outlines a comprehensive model of risk which draws on mainstream empirical research threat assessment developmental psychopathology attachment theory and a relational model derived from psychoanalysis The framework incorporates intrapersonal and interpersonal dimensions and is designed to enhance the reader s capacity to make a thorough risk formulation The approach highlights the significance of childhood development in understanding violent and sexually violent acts and the complicated interpersonal processes involved in managing individuals who have a propensity to violent enactment These dynamic processes between people impact on risk and risk perception and can distort judgement if not recognised and understood Assessing Risk will be of practical use in enhancing the skills of professionals to assess and manage risk in a comprehensive and effective way and will appeal to all those mental health and criminal justice practitioners working with risky individuals
