What Jesus Learned from Women James F. McGrath, 2021-02-26 Dehumanization has led to serious misinterpretation of the Gospels On the one hand Christians have often made Jesus so much more than human that it seemed inappropriate to ask about the influence other human beings had on him male or female On the other hand women have been treated as less than fully human their names omitted from stories and their voices and influence on Jesus neglected When we ask the question this book does what Jesus learned from women puzzling questions that have frustrated readers of the Gospels throughout history suddenly find solutions Weaving cutting edge biblical scholarship together with an element of historical fiction and a knack for writing for a general audience James McGrath makes the stories of women in the New Testament come alive and sheds fresh light on the figure of Jesus as well This book is a must read for scholars students and anyone else interested in Jesus and or in the role of ancient women in the context of their times

The Literary Construction of the Other in the Acts of the Apostles Mitzi J Smith, 2012-06-28 Mitzi Smith engages the reader in explaining how as in the real world the characterization of the Others is used negatively in the biblical texts. Smith shows how the concept of difference is constructed in order to distinguish ourselves from proximate others indeed the other who is most similar to us is most threatening and most problematic. The process of Othering or Otherness is a synthetic and political social construct that allows us to create and maintain boundaries between them and us. Thus this work demonstrates how proximate characters are constructed as the Other in the Acts of the Apostles. Charismatics Jews and women are proximate others who are constructed as the external and internal Others.
