Mary The Mouse And The Coal Mine:

Mary, the Mouse, and the Coal Mine Kate Finegan,1999-06-01 For 15 year old Mary McDougall work in the mines of Morgantown was hard almost unendurable But with only Mother now to support the three children Mary had to work Work in the mines was the only employment available in a town where everyone worked in the mines and did everything else together from breadmaking to canning fruit to rescuing disaster victims Landscape, Association, Empire Philip Hutch,Elaine Stratford,2023-12-02 This book tells a compelling story about invasion settler colonialism and an emergent sense of identity in place as seen through topographical and landscape images by seven fascinating artists Their ways of imagining the Vandemonian landscape are part of a much larger story about how aesthetic forces shaped empire and colony place and migration and people s lives They remain intriguing through lines of global significance and local meaning

Appalachian Women Sidney Saylor Reynolds,2021-10-21 Appalachian women have been the subject of song story and report for nearly two centuries Now for the first time a fully annotated bibliography makes accessible this large body of literature Works covered include novels short stories magazine articles manuscripts dissertations surveys and oral history tapes altogether over 1 200 items The annotated listings are grouped under broad subject headings including biography coal mining education fiction health care industry migrants music poetry and religion An author title subject index provides easy access to the listings Memory Ireland Oona Frawley,2012-03-29 In the second volume of a series that will ultimately include four the authors consider Irish diasporic memory and memory practices While the Irish diaspora has become the subject of a wide range of scholarship there has been little work focused on its relationship to memory The first half of the volume asks how diasporic memory functions in different places and times and what forms it takes on As an island nation with a history of emigration Ireland has developed a rich diasporic cultural memory one that draws on multiple traditions and historiographies of both home and away Native traditions are not imported wholesale but instead develop their own curious hybridity reflecting the nature of emigrant memory that absorbs new ways of thinking about home How do immigrants remember their homeland How do descendants of immigrants remember a land they rarely visit How does diasporic memory pass through families and how is it represented in cultural forms such as literature festivals and souvenirs In its second half this volume shifts its attention to the concept of memory practices ways of cultural remembering that result from and are shaped by particular cultural forms Many of these cultural forms embody memory materially through language music and photography and because of their distinctive expressions of culture give rise to distinctive memory practices Gathering the leading voices in Irish studies this volume opens new pathways into the body of Irish cultural memory demonstrating time and again the ways in which memory is supported by the negotiations of individuals within wider cultural contexts Contributors include Aidan Arrowsmith Hasia Diner Joep Leerssen Paul Muldoon Nuala N Dhomhnaill United States Government Publications Monthly Catalog ,1950 Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopædia John Huston Finley,William Peterson,Sir Edward Parrott,1917 Sing It Yourself Louise Bradford, A collection of 220 folk songs representing different parts of the United States some with foreign roots The songs are based on pentatonic scales making it easy for children to learn the melodies All of the songs are playable on Orff instruments These songs can be used as a springboard for discussing other states and cultures
