David Rizzio and Mary Queen of Scots David Tweedie, 2011-09-16 On the evening of 9 March 1566 a raiding party forced their way into the palace of Holyrood House and stabbed Italian secretary David Rizzio to death while he was at supper with Mary Queen of Scots The attack was savage and brutal Rizzio was stabbed over fifty times and Mary s husband Darnley was among the conspirators David Rizzio came to Scotland in 1561 There he rose to power and influence in the court of Mary Queen of Scots He was her secretary chief minister and the architect of her plan to avoid Scotland turning into a Calvinist republic It was also rumoured that he was her lover and father of her child James VI and I David Tweedie explains how Rizzio so enraged the Scots lords that they plotted his murder He points to the complicity of Elizabeth and her ministers and shows that Rizzio s murder was a serious political event since with his death died the possibility of religious counter reformation in Scotland While the other men in Mary s life have received their due from the historians Rizzio remains a shadowy figure This book restores the balance and explores one of the most shocking events of Mary's colourful reign

Mary Lincoln for the Ages Jason Emerson, 2019-04-19 In this sweeping analytical bibliography Jason Emerson goes beyond the few sources usually employed to contextualize Mary Lincoln's life and thoroughly reexamines nearly every word ever written about her. In doing so, this book becomes the prime authority on Mary Lincoln, points researchers to key underused sources, reveals how views about her have evolved over the years, and sets the stage for new questions and debates about the themes and controversies that have defined her legacy. Mary Lincoln for the Ages first articulates how reliance on limited sources has greatly restricted our understanding of the subject, evaluating their flaws and benefits and pointing out the shallowness of using the same texts to study her life. Emerson then presents more than four hundred bibliographical entries of nonfiction books and pamphlets, scholarly and popular articles, journalism, literature, and juvenilia. More than just listings of titles and publication dates, each entry includes Emerson's deft analysis of these additional works on Mary Lincoln that should be used but rarely have been to better understand who she was during her life and why we see her as we do. The volume also includes rarely used illustrations, including some that have never before appeared in print. A roadmap for a firmer, more complete grasp of Mary Lincoln's place in the historical record, this is the first and only extensive analytical bibliography of the subject. In highlighting hundreds of overlooked sources, Emerson changes the paradigm of Mary Lincoln's legacy.

Mary Seacole Jane Robinson, 2019-10-22 The Greatest Black Briton in History triumphed over the Crimea and Victorian England. The Times called her a heroine, Florence Nightingale called her a brothel-keeping quack, and Queen Victoria's nephew called her simply Mammy. Mary Seacole was one of the most eccentric and charismatic women of her era. Born at her mother's hotel in Jamaica in 1805, she became an independent doctress, combining the herbal remedies of her African ancestry with sound surgical techniques. On the outbreak of the Crimean War, she arrived in London desperate to join Florence Nightingale at the front, but the authorities refused to see her. Being black, nearly 50, rather stout, and gloriously loud in every way, she was obviously unsuitable. Undaunted, Mary travelled to Balaklava under her own steam to build the British Hotel just behind the lines. It was an outrageous venture and a huge success; she became known and loved by everyone from the rank and file to the royal family. For more than a century after her death, this remarkable woman was all but forgotten. This, the first full-length biography of a Victorian celebrity, recently voted the greatest black Briton in history, brings Mary Seacole centre stage at last.
