Research in Family Business Philip Phan, John E. Butler, 2008-03-01 Until recently research in family business has been confined to a sub group of entrepreneurship scholars labor economists and sociologists Family business employment is often the only economic option available to migrants the first entrepreneurial experience for young people and a source of an economy's new business creation activities These issues are typically framed in terms of the generational transfer of wealth management succession or the interplay between the economic system of a family and its sociopolitical system The phenomenon is clearly widespread but for some reason continues to be poorly understood We believe that progress on the empirical front has been hampered by a lack of accepted theoretical frameworks For example attempts to employ agency theory geographic agglomeration and spillovers social networks sense making bargaining and other frameworks have been scattered In our view the extant research has not created the theoretic ballast that can withstand repeated empirical verification More fundamentally researchers are beginning to ask Is family business theoretically distinctive or a convenient phenomenon for exploiting familiar theories with new data We believe the time is ripe for a focused look at the theoretical history and prospects of family business research Review articles grounded in economics sociology psychology and political economy and that offer multidisciplinary implications are especially sought Theory based empirical papers are also welcomed We believe that there are exciting opportunities for theory development and so encourage authors to focus on this in their submissions In sum the focus of this volume is on showcasing and advancing the latest research in family business
