Following Directions

A. Write the directions on the compass.

B. Sam and Peter are scouts. They went to a camp to get a training of walking through the forests. They were taken to a rocky surface in a forest and given the following instructions based on which they had to complete their journey.

1. After traveling 500 m towards the east of the rocky surface, you will come across a footbridge that lies across a stream.
2. After crossing the footbridge, and traveling 800 m towards the northeast, you will come across a waterfall.
3. When you travel a distance of 600 m from the waterfall towards the southeast, you will come across a big tree.
4. When you travel 750 m towards the southwest from the tree, you will come across a cave.
5. By traveling 800 m from the cave towards the north-west you will return to the camp.

Based on the information that has been provided to the above kids, draw a rough diagram of the path that they should take.

Reading North By South:

Reading North by South Neil Larsen, 1995 Reading North Korea Sonia Ryang, 2020-04-06 Often depicted as one of the world's most strictly isolationist and relentlessly authoritarian regimes North Korea has remained terra incognita to foreign researchers as a site for anthropological fieldwork. Given the difficulty of gaining access to the country and its people, is it possible to examine the cultural logic and social dynamics of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea? In this innovative book Sonia Ryang casts new light onto the study of North Korean culture and society by reading literary texts as sources of ethnographic data. Analyzing and interpreting the rituals and language embodied in a range of literary works published in the 1970s and 1980s, Ryang focuses critical attention on three central themes: love, war, and self, that reflect the nearly complete overlap of the personal, social, and political realms in North Korean society. The ideology embedded in these propagandistic works laid the cultural foundation for the nation as a perpetual ritual state where social structures and personal relations are suspended in tribute to Kim Il Sung, the political and spiritual leader who died in 1994 but lives eternally in the hearts of his people and still weaves the social fabric of present-day North Korea. Drawing on fifteen years of experience of cropmark interpretation as well as his involvement in several excavations of cursus monuments and contemporary sites, Kenneth Brophy uncovers some of the secrets of the Neolithic landscape. While outlining the physical characteristics of the cursus, this book also addresses the limitations of this kind of typological description when applied to monuments which varied so remarkably in terms of materiality and size. Moving beyond a morphological account, Brophy considers what can be said of this diverse group of sites and how they were actually built and used in prehistory in light of several decades of aerial reconnaissance and excavation in Scotland. Through a close study of the differences as well as the similarities between these structures, this book offers a nuanced account of cursus monuments, finally allowing this important monument type to be better understood and placed alongside others of the period. Offering exciting new ways of thinking about these enigmatic yet important monuments, Reading Between the Lines: The Neolithic Cursus Monuments of Scotland is an essential resource for students and specialists in British prehistory providing an introduction to the Early Neolithic archaeology of lowland Scotland as well as a meditation on broader aspects of monumentality and architecture The Expeditious Instructor (Art of Reading, Writing, and Arithmetic, to be Learned Without a Master) ...
