Reading The Past Literature And History:

Reading the Past Tamsin Spargo, 2000 Questions about how and why we read the past continue to demand the attention of cultural critics Reading the Past introduces key debates about history historiography and historicism that have transformed approaches to history and literature It includes influential and provocative theoretical essays as well as lively case studies and readings by literary critics and historians Reading History in Children's Books Catherine Butler, Hallie O'Donovan, 2012-07-17 This book offers a critical account of historical books about Britain written for children including realist novels non fiction fantasy and alternative histories It also investigates the literary ideological and philosophical challenges involved in writing about the past especially for an audience whose knowledge of history is often limited The

Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art , 1866 The Cambridge History of English Literature Volume Xv Alfred Rayney, Waller, Adolphus William, Ward, 1953 Edinburgh History of Reading Rose Jonathan Rose, 2020-07-09 Reveals the experience of reading in many cultures and across the ages Covers pornography and the origins of the transgender movement Explores everyday reading in Nazi Germany Analyses prison reading Examines reading in revolutionary societies and occupied nations Subversive Readers explores the strategies used by readers to question authority challenge convention resist oppression assert their independence and imagine a better world This kind of insurgent reading may be found everywhere in revolutionary France and Nazi Germany in Eastern Europe under Communism and in Australian and Iranian prisons among eighteenth century women reading history and nineteenth century men reading erotica among postcolonial Africans the blind and pioneering transgender activists The Cambridge History of English Literature , 1932 The New Larned History for Ready Reference, Reading and Research Josephus Nelson Larned, 1923 The Old Testament Between Theology and History Niels Peter Lemche, 2008-01-01 From its inception at the time of the Enlightenment until the mid twentieth century the historical critical method constituted the dominant paradigm in Old Testament studies In this magisterial overview Niels Peter Lemche surveys the development of the historical critical method and the way it changed the scholarly perception of the Old Testament In part 1 he describes the rise and influence of historical critical approaches while in part 2 he traces their decline and fall Then in part 3 he discusses the identity of the authors of the Old Testament based on the content of the literature they wrote demonstrating that the collapse of history does not preclude critical study Part 4 investigates the theological consequences of this collapse and surveys Old Testament and biblical theology in its various manifestations in the twentieth century An appendix includes a history of Palestine from the Stone Age to modern times constructed without recourse to the Old Testament Reading Old Books Peter Mack, 2021-11-23 A wide ranging exploration of the creative power of literary tradition from Chaucer to the present In literary and cultural studies tradition is a word everyone uses but few address critically In Reading Old Books Peter Mack offers a wide ranging exploration of the creative power of literary tradition from the middle ages to the twenty first century revealing in new ways how it helps writers and readers make new works and meanings Reading Old Books argues that the best way to understand tradition is by examining the moments when a writer takes up an old text and writes something new out of a dialogue with that text and the promptings of the present situation The book examines Petrarch as a user instigator and victim of tradition It shows how Chaucer became the first great English writer by translating and adapting a minor poem by Boccaccio It investigates how Ariosto Tasso and Spenser made new epic meanings by playing with assumptions episodes and phrases translated from their predecessors It analyzes how the Victorian novelist Elizabeth Gaskell drew on tradition to address the new problem of urban deprivation in Mary Barton And finally it looks at how the Kenyan writer Ngũgĩ wa Thiong'o in his 2004 novel Wizard of the Crow reflects on biblical English literary and African traditions Drawing on key theorists critics historians and sociologists and stressing the international character of literary tradition Reading Old Books illuminates the not entirely free choices readers and writers make to create meaning in collaboration and competition with their models

Priests of History Sarah Irving-Stonebraker, 2024-09-24 How can Christians engage meaningfully with history In an age underpinned by the idea that life is about self invention and fulfilment contemporary Western culture holds that the past has little to teach us We live in what this book terms the Ahistoric Age in which we are profoundly disconnected from history In the attempt to appear relevant the church often embraces this ahistoric worldview by jettisoning the historic ideas and practices of Christian formation But this has unintended consequences leaving Christians unmoored from history and losing the ability to grapple with its ethical complexities In Priests of History Sarah Irving Stonebraker draws upon her expertise and her experience as an atheist who has become a Christian to examine what history is and why it matters If Christians can learn how to be priests of history tending and keeping our past history can help us strengthen and revive our spiritual and intellectual formation and equip us to communicate the gospel in a confused and rootless world The Making of the English Literary Canon Trevor Thornton Ross, 1998 It is widely accepted among literary scholars that canon formation began in the eighteenth century when scholarly editions and critical treatments of older works designed to educate readers about the national literary heritage appeared for the first time In The Making of the English Literary Canon Trevor Ross challenges this assumption arguing that canon formation was going on well before the eighteenth century but was based on a very different set of literary and cultural values Covering a period that extends from the Middle Ages to the institutionalisation of literature in the eighteenth century Ross's comprehensive history traces the evolution of cultural attitudes toward literature in English society highlighting the diverse interests and assumptions that defined and shaped the literary canon An indigenous canon of letters Ross argues had been both the hope and aim of English authors since the Middle Ages Early authors believed that promoting the idea of a national literature would help publicise their work and favour literary production in the vernacular Ross places these early gestures toward canon making in the context of the highly rhetorical habits of thought that dominated medieval and Renaissance culture habits that were gradually displaced by an emergent rationalist understanding of literary value He shows that beginning in the late seventeenth century canon makers became less concerned with how English literature was produced than with how it was read and received By showing that canon formation has served different functions in the past The Making of the English Literary Canon is relevant not only to current debates over the canon but also as an important corrective to prevailing views of early modern English literature and of how it was first evaluated promoted and preserved It is widely accepted among literary scholars that canon formation began in the eighteenth century when scholarly editions and critical treatments of older works designed to educate readers about the national literary heritage appeared for the first time In The Making of the English Literary Canon Trevor Ross challenges this assumption arguing that canon formation was going on well before the eighteenth century but was based on a very different set of literary and cultural values Covering a period that extends from the Middle Ages to the institutionalisation of literature in the eighteenth century Ross's comprehensive history traces the evolution of cultural attitudes toward literature in English society highlighting the diverse interests and assumptions that defined and shaped the literary canon An indigenous canon of letters Ross argues had been both the hope and aim of English authors since the Middle Ages Early authors believed that promoting the idea of a national literature would help publicise their work and favour literary production in the vernacular Ross places these early gestures toward canon making in the context of the highly rhetorical habits of thought that dominated medieval and Renaissance culture habits that were gradually displaced by an emergent rationalist understanding of literary value He shows that beginning in the late seventeenth century canon makers became less concerned with how English literature was produced than with how it was read and received By showing that canon formation has served different functions in the past The Making of the English Literary Canon is relevant not only to current debates over the canon but also as an important corrective to prevailing views of early modern English literature and of how it was first evaluated promoted and preserved

New Approaches in Teaching History Frederic Krome, 2024-02-14 Science fiction literature and film are an underappreciated source for the teaching of history Finding material that can excite a student's curiosity can be a key towards greater student engagement especially among students who are taking history as a requirement rather than from interest The discovery that they can read or watch science fiction as part of their classwork often comes as a pleasant surprise Beyond its popularity however utilizing science fiction for class assignments has certain pedagogical advantages it introduces students to new vistas in historical thought helps them learn how literature and film can be applied as a primary source and can encourage participation in projects that are enjoyable Each chapter provides case studies focusing on a different subject in the modern history curriculum and in addition to providing an analysis of specific texts and or cinematic sources gives suggestions on assignments for the students

History, Change and Sustainability Detlev Möller, 2020-03-09 Climate change is a major challenge facing modern society The chemistry of air and its influence on the climate system forms the main focus of this book Vol 2 of Chemistry of the Climate System takes a problem based approach to presenting global atmospheric processes evaluating the effects of changing air compositions as well as possibilities for interference with these processes through the use of chemistry The Granite Monthly. A New Hampshire Magazine Devoted to Literature, History, and State Progress Otis Grant Hammond, Henry Harrison Metcalf, John Norris McClintock, 2024-07-31 Reprint of the original first published in 1877 Literature, History, Choice Hillel Weiss, 2013-11-01 Starting with a discussion on the elements of the genre of alternative counterfactual history and on its place between the poles of historical determinism and relativism this book develops a literary theory of the historical alternativeness principle and applies it to the reading of The City with All That is Therein Ir u mloa one of the most important and less studied books of the greatest Israeli writer Nobel Prize winner S Y Agnon 1887 1970 The investigation reveals that this principle is by no means inherent solely in modernism and postmodernism but lies at the very basis of the reading process particularly at the levels of plot and character origination and historical and historiographical conceptions that underlie the author's imagination The book is intended for all who are interested in modern literature and theory Loving Literature Deidre Lynch, 2015 Of the many charges laid against contemporary literary scholars one of the most common and perhaps the most wounding is that they simply don't love books And while the most obvious response is that no actually the profession of literary studies does acknowledge and address personal attachments to literature that answer risks obscuring a more fundamental question Why should they That question led Deidre Shauna Lynch into the historical and cultural investigation of Loving Literature How did it come to be that professional literary scholars are expected not just to study but to love literature and to inculcate that love in generations of students What Lynch discovers is that books and the attachments we form to them have long played a role in the formation of private life that the love of literature in other words is neither incidental to nor inextricable from the history of literature Yet at the same time there is nothing self evident or ahistorical about our love of literature our views of books as objects of affection have clear roots in late eighteenth century and nineteenth century publishing reading habits and domestic history Publisher's Web site Literature, History and Identity in Northern Nigeria Tsiga, Ismaila A., Bhadmus, M.O., 2016-02-22 This unique collection of articles on literature in northern Nigeria is in three parts Part one presents an overview of the running theme in which Na Allah explores the theoretical relationship between literature history and identity in northern Nigeria using the proverbial story of the blind man who holds a lamp while walking alone in the night Similarly Tsiga undertakes in a long bibliographical essay a notable survey of the relationship between literature history and identity in northern Nigeria chronicling the development of life writing in the region dating back three hundred years Part two focuses on the relationship between literature and history in northern Nigeria and begins with the article in which Illah investigates the theme He uses the image of the bus to underscore the point he makes concerning the uniqueness of northern Nigerian literature which continues its journey even without a spare tyre Equally in this part Balogun discusses Yerima's Attahiru Ameh Oboni The Great as theatres of colonial resistance

just as Methuselah also examines the heroism celebrated in Ahmed Yerima s Attahiru Adamu revisits the trans fictional use of the Grimm Brothers tale in the early published Hausa written narratives while Yunusa and Malumfashi examine similar historical concerns in Abubakar Imam and Sa adu Zungur respectively This part concludes with Garba assessing the transformation of the written Hausa prose narratives into radio broadcasts while Abiodun examines in a historiographic survey the various forms and composition of Ilorin music In what might have been the scholar s last conference article before his sudden death Nasidi in Part three opens the debate on literature and identity in northern Nigeria eloquently theorising on the relationship with Foucault his favourite philosopher AbdulRaheem illustrates how the literature of the people of Ilorin is their identity marker while Kazaure investigates the split character in Labo Yari s Man of the Moment Ibrahim explores identity in marriage between migrants and natives in Kanchana Ugbabe s Soul Mates while Aondofa investigates globalisation and indigenous television Using Tiv film typology like Aondofa Sulaiman examines the use of diction in characterisation in the film industry The third of the contributors on the film industry AbdulBaqi uses films shown on DSTV s African Magic channels to investigate matrimonial harmony in North Central Nigeria Jaji revisits the antecedents and prospects in the relationship between prose and identity in northern Nigeria Giwa offers a detailed investigation of Zaynab Alkali s The Initiates on gender politics Similarly Muhammad and Muhammad are concerned with identity and the gender politics in Bilkisu Abubakar s To Live Again and The Woman in Me The last article in the book jointly written by Yusuf Anwonmeh and Agulonye offers the only viewpoint on children s literature in northern Nigeria

Reading Old English
Biblical Poetry Janet Schrunck Ericksen, 2020-11-03 Reading Old English Biblical Poetry considers the Junius 11 manuscript the only surviving illustrated book of Old English poetry in terms of its earliest readers and their multiple strategies of reading and making meaning Junius 11 begins with the Creation story and ends with the final vanquishing of Satan by Jesus The study is framed by particular attention to the materiality of the manuscript and how that might have informed its early reception and it broadens considerations of reading beyond those of the manuscript s compiler and possible patron As a book Junius 11 reflects a rich and varied culture of reading that existed in and beyond houses of God in England in the tenth and eleventh centuries and it points to readers who had enough experience to select and find wisdom narrative pleasure and a diversity of other things within this orany book s contents
