State Board of Education,1925 Individual Characteristics Significant to Salary Levels of Engineers and Scientists Richard P. Howell,Martin Gorfinkel,Dale Bent,1966 Effective comparisons between salaries of one engineer scientist population and those of another may be made in two ways using equations developed in this study The first compares the aggregate salary of a given population with the aggregate salary of the population used in developing the equations of this study The steps necessary to make such a comparison consist in 1 obtaining point of hire characteristics of the population to be compared 2 entering the values of the variables called for in the equation developed in this study 3 computing the sum of the salaries and 4 comparing results with the sum of the actual salaries being paid The second type of comparison consists in developing a regression equation concerning the population to be compared using point of hire variables identical with those used in this study The coefficients or parameters of the resulting equations may then be compared to those of the equations developed here to provide insights concerning the relative emphasis placed by management knowingly or unknowingly on selected characteristics of new hires The coefficients or other parameters amount to a kind of profile and by knowingly controlling them a management may choose the characteristics that it wishes to stress in salary determinations Thus the salary structure may become a more effective means to implement policy Hands-On Science and Technology for Ontario, Grade 5 Jennifer E. Citizen Identity Formation of Domestic Students and Syrian Refugee Youth in Jordan Patricia K. Kubow,2023-06-07 Moving beyond Western philosophical and political frameworks this text engages with and centers Arab Islamic ontologies pupil voice and gender to explore citizen identity formation and belonging among domestic students and Syrian refugees in Jordan Focusing on the role of double shift schools educational policy and provision the volume interrogates how citizenship and youth identity is rooted upheld and altered over time With an eye to complex historical local and national contexts of migration and in security in the Middle East the book strives for a reconceptualization of citizen identity and education to better reflect the development of socio civic identities amidst poverty forced migration and unrest Based on direct access to 10 public schools in Jordan and using qualitative data it applies an innovative combination of different methods to ascertain student voice to theorize education for citizenship based on real and challenging experiences of Syrian refugees as well as domestic Jordanian students Moving beyond the traditional Western philosophies that largely frame citizenship discourses it applies process philosophy to a field dominated by political considerations while also paying attention to social contexts As such it goes beyond the context of Jordan to inform regional and international discourses policies and initiatives surrounding refugees and education in emergencies The book will appeal to scholars professionals and students in the fields of comparative and international education citizenship youth studies social studies and social foundations of education as well as those working in the formal and non formal educational development sectors Western Journal of Education ,1927
