Talks on Writing English Arlo Bates,2015-01-29 These talks were given in the autumn of 1894 as a course on Advanced English Composition in the Lowell Free Classes and that they are now printed is largely due to the fact that they were so well received by those who then heard them In preparing them I consulted whatever books upon composition came to my hand I examined some with profit some with pleasure and some it must be confessed not wholly without amusement or even impatience Doubtless I owe something to many of these books but I am not conscious of much obligation to any save the Principles of Rhetoric by Professor A S Hill English Composition by Professor Barrett Wendell and English Prose by Professor John Earle I have conscientiously endeavored to make the lectures as practical as possible stating as clearly as I could those things which would have been most helpful to me had I read and heeded them twenty years ago The necessity of holding an audience made fitting some effort to render the talks entertaining but I have never consciously said anything for the mere purpose of being amusing and I have never been of the opinion that a book gains either in dignity or in usefulness by being dull My purpose has throughout been sincerely serious and if the book shall prove helpful I shall have attained the object for which it was written Author Fictions Ingo Berensmeyer,2023-10-04 Fictional novelists and other author characters have been a staple of novels and stories from the early nineteenth century onwards What is it that attracts authors to representing their own kind in fiction Author Fictions addresses this question from a theoretical and historical perspective Narrative representations of literary authorship not only reflect the aesthetic convictions and social conditions of their actual authors or their time they also take an active part in negotiating and shaping these conditions The book unfolds the history of such author fictions in European and North American texts since the early nineteenth century as a literary history of literary authorship ranging from the Victorian bildungsroman to contemporary autofiction It combines rhetorical and sociological approaches to answer the question how literature makes authors Identifying author fictions as narratives that address the fragile material conditions of literary creation in the actual and symbolic economies of production Ingo Berensmeyer explores how these texts elaborate and manipulate concepts and models of authorship This book will be relevant to English American and comparative literary studies and to anyone interested in the topic of literary authorship Reaching the Reluctant Writer Mike Artell, 2005 Mike Artell rouses reluctant writers with 43 short informational writing exercises that use humor to engage students and equip them with the skills they ll need to write clearly and effectively Using real world texts like letters advertising copy resumes and maps Reaching the Reluctant Writer helps you encourage students to trust their own wit stretch their creative muscle and learn how to think funny Each inventive exercise challenges students to practice specific writing craft skills and includes a drawing component that develops visual literacy The result is a valuable resource that blends humor and creativity with practical real world writing practice
