Excerpt: the boat's lantern a few necessary words and Andie carried them to Rankeillor. In about an hour he came aboard again with a purse of money and the assurance that a good horse should be standing saddled for me by two to-morrow at Clackmannan Pool. This done and the boat riding by her stone anchor we lay down to sleep under the sail. We were in the Pool the next day long ere two and there was nothing left for me but sit and wait. I felt little alacrity upon my errand. I would have been glad of any passable excuse to lay it down but none being to be found my uneasiness was no less great than if I had been running to some desired pleasure. By shortly after one the horse was at the water side and I could see a man walking it to and fro till I should land which vastly swelled my impatience. Andie ran the moment of my liberation very fine showing himself a man of his bare word but scarce serving his employers with a heaped measure and by about fifty seconds after two I was in the saddle and on the full stretch for Stirling. In a little more than an hour I had passed that town and was already mounting Alan Water side when the weather broke in a small tempest. The rain blinded me the wind had nearly beat me from the saddle and the first darkness of the night surprised me in a wilderness still some way east of Balwhidder not very sure of my direction and mounted on a horse that began already to be weary. In the press of my hurry and to be spared the delay and annoyance of a guide I had followed so far as it was possible for any horseman the line of my journey with Alan. This I did with open eyes foreseeing a great risk in it which the tempest had now brought to a reality. The last that I knew of where I was I think it must

Robert Louis Stevenson and the Great Affair Richard J. Hill, 2017-02-03 In his travel narrative Travels with a Donkey in the Cevennes 1879 Robert Louis Stevenson declares I travel not to go anywhere but to go. I travel for travel's sake. The great affair is to move. Taking up the concepts of time place and memory the contributors to this collection explore in what ways the dynamic view of life suggested by this quotation permeates Stevenson's work. The essays adopt a wide variety of critical approaches including post colonial theory post structuralism new historicism art history and philosophy making use of the vast array of literary materials that Stevenson left across a global journey that began in Scotland in 1850 and ended in Samoa in 1894. These range from travel journals letters and classic literary staples such as Treasure Island and The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde to rarely read masterpieces such as The Master of Ballantrae or The Ebb Tide While much recent scholarship on Stevenson foregrounds geography the present volume also examines the theme of movement across memory time and generic boundaries Taken together the essays offer a view of Stevenson that demonstrates how the protean nature of his literary output reflects the radical developments in science technology and culture that characterized the age in which he lived
