An Unfinished Republic David Strand,2011-07-06 In this cogent and insightful reading of China s twentieth century political culture David Strand argues that the Chinese Revolution of 1911 engendered a new political life one that began to free men and women from the inequality and hierarchy that formed the spine of China s social and cultural order Chinese citizens confronted their leaders and each other face to face in a stance familiar to republics worldwide This shift in political posture was accompanied by considerable trepidation as well as excitement Profiling three prominent political actors of the time suffragist Tang Qunying diplomat Lu Zhengxiang and revolutionary Sun Yatsen Strand demonstrates how a sea change in political performance left leaders dependent on popular support and citizens enmeshed in a political process productive of both authority and dissent

Visual Subjectivity in Chinese and American Thought and Literature Guozhong Duan,Ming Dong Gu,2025-10-15 Providing the reader with a systematic study of visual subjectivity in comparative thought and literature this book analyses the role that vision and visuality especially interpersonal visuality plays in the constitution of subject and subjectivity in Chinese and American traditions Examining the formation of visual subjectivity in the philosophical works by major Chinese and Western thinkers this book provides a comparative study of four masterworks of Chinese and American fiction focusing on The Plum in the Golden Vase The Story of the Stone Moby Dick and The Scarlet Letter It demonstrates that there are both psychologically universal and culturally specific factors and features in the visual constitution and representation of self identity subject and subjectivity Offering fresh insights for cross cultural studies of intellectual thought literature ideology and culture through the visual lens this book will appeal to students and scholars engaged in comparative studies of Chinese and American thought literature and narrative theory

Chikamatsu C. Andrew Gerstle,Chikamatsu,2002-09-04 Chikamatsu Monzaemon 1653 1725 often referred to as Japan s Shakespeare and a god of writers was arguably the most famous playwright in Japanese history and wrote more than 100 plays for the kabuki and bunraku theaters Today the plays of this major literary figure are performed on kabuki and bunraku stages as well as in the modern theater and forty nine films of his plays have been made thirty one of them from the silent era Translations of Chikamatsu s plays are available but we have few examples of his late work in which he increasingly incorporated stylistic elements of his shorter contemporary dramas into his longer period pieces Translator C Andrew Gerstle argues that in these mature history plays Chikamatsu depicted the tension between the private and public spheres of society by combining the rich character development of his contemporary pieces with the larger political themes of his period pieces In this volume Gerstle translates five plays four histories and one contemporary piece never before available in English that complement other collections of Chikamatsu's work revealing new dimensions to the work of this great Japanese playwright and artist Mao's Road to Power Stuart Schram, 2018-10-24 By 1939 Mao Zedong was a leader in the Chinese Communist Party through his political acumen his organizing energy and his executive ability At the same time his abilities to shift register to maintain a sense of the whole and also of the particular and to absorb seemingly contradictory realities in the social political and military arenas he Auction Catalogs, Hodgson's Rooms Sotheby Parke Bernet & Co, 1972 DAYS Tsuyoshi Yasuda, 2017 Growing up Tsukushi Tsukamoto never had an athletic bone in his body but now in his first year at the prestigious Seiseki High School he finds himself in their world class soccer club At his first inter high school training camp Tsukushi's characteristic can-do spirit finds him leading the way for Seiseki Little by little he wins them over and earns their acceptance as one of their own Then at the Japan Inter High School Championship regional preliminaries the official blows the whistle and the game starts along with Tsukushi's life as a true soccer player Fact in Fiction Kristin Stapleton, 2016-08-17 Historical novels can be windows into other cultures and eras but it's not always clear what's fact and what's fiction Thousands have read Ba Jin's influential novel Family but few realize how much he shaped his depiction of 1920s China to suit his story and his politics In Fact in Fiction Kristin Stapleton puts Ba Jin's bestseller into full historical context both to illustrate how it successfully portrays human experiences during the 1920s and to reveal its historical distortions Stapleton's attention to historical evidence and clear prose that directly addresses themes and characters from Family create a book that scholars students and general readers will enjoy She focuses on Chengdu China Ba Jin's birthplace and the setting for Family which was also a cultural and political center of western China The city's richly preserved archives allow Stapleton to create an intimate portrait of a city that seemed far from the center of national politics of the day but clearly felt the forces of and contributed to the turbulent stream of Chinese history

Sadri, 1997-04-16 This book compares and contrasts the foreign relations strategies of China Cuba and Iran in the first decade of their post revolutionary periods Among a variety of explanatory variables leadership particularly the type of revolutionary leaders played a significant role in explaining the outcome of the policymaking process in each case Three distinct patterns of foreign relations strategies are evident among all three revolutionary regimes in the ten year period Two Track Conflictual and Conciliatory This book is a valuable source for both experts and non experts alike in providing insight into the foreign relations of revolutionary regimes in developing countries and in helping U S policymakers anticipate behaviors of future revolutionary leaders A focal point of this book is the examination of the nonalignment strategies of these prominent developing countries during the infancy of their regimes Each state's particular strategy is described and explained in detail and then contrasted and compared Although there are differences among their foreign policies considering their geographic locations size wealth military capabilities leadership characteristics and political institutions there are significant similarities regarding their foreign policy goals and trends in their foreign relations with the Great Powers Among explanatory factors leadership played a significant role in the policy making process although the foreign relations strategies of these revolutionary regimes were fed by a combination of national and international variables In all three states the tone of foreign policy was set by revolutionary leaders who were either idealists or realists Idealists tended to take a more active and conflictual approach toward one or both of the superpowers while Realists were more cautious and less willing to resort to a conflictual posture This book also investigates the gap between the theoretical and practical nonalignment stance of each state This cross regional study provides policy analysts with clues about the foreign policies of other revolutionary developing countries in similar situations Finally it makes suggestions about how a Great Power may relate to a developing country during its first post revolution decade
