ABSTRACT

There are several reasons why medical history is important. It helps us put the present into perspective. If we do not study our history, we will be condemned to repeat it. It can give us wisdom, a broad view, and humility when we realize that our discoveries may have already been made by our forebears. We do not often proclaim the fact that Geriatric Medicine is one of the great success stories in western medicine – something that we should celebrate. Knowing something about our origins should make us proud of our chosen discipline. In this brief overview of the historical development of Geriatrics and Gerontology, I will trace the evolution of understanding of ageing in health and diseases from prehistory to ancient Greece, ancient Rome, ancient Egypt, Arabia and Middle ages before dealing with the first advance in the scientific area. The input of the major actors of the dawn of clinical geriatrics will be detailed: Marjory Warren, Lara Lazarevic, Jean-Martin Charcot and Ignatz Nascher, who a century ago coined the word “Geriatrics” to define the medicine of old age. Geriatrics is a recent science but one that is growing in stature. A study of its history reveals several recurring messages: 1) diseases may present differently in old age; 2) the dangers of medication; 3) benefits of a healthy lifestyle (particularly diet and exercise); 4) harm done to old people by unfortunate political interference and agrism and 5) importance of a speciality dedicated to ill old people.

There are several reasons why medical history is important. It helps us put the present into perspective. If we do not study our history, we will be condemned to repeat it. It can give us wisdom, a broad view, and humility when we realize that our discoveries may have already been made by our forebears. We do not often proclaim the fact that Geriatric Medicine is one of the great success stories in western medicine – something that we should celebrate. Knowing something about our origins should make us proud of our chosen discipline. In this brief overview of the historical development of Geriatrics and Gerontology, I will trace the evolution of understanding of ageing in health and disease.

1. What is in a name?

The study of normal ageing and the diseases of old age have had several names. Aristotle, in chapter five of his first book on Rhetoric in 367 BC [1], used the word “Eugeria”, by which he meant successful ageing – a long and happy life in which independence was maintained and there was no pain or suffering. (Eu means in a good manner, Geria the treatment of old age).

Celsus and Galen spoke of Gerocomie (a term resurrected by Floyer in the eighteenth century), the science of the treatment of old age. Charcot wrote about “Senile and Chronic diseases”. In more recent times, Metchnikoff coined the word “Gerontology”.

the study of the biological, behavioural and social sciences of old age. In 1909, Nascher first used the word “Geriatrics”, the medicine of old age. Others have introduced other terms, perhaps in attempts to lose the unfortunate negative connotations of “Geriatrics”: “Eld Health and Geratology” [2] are examples, but these have not been widely adopted.

2. Evolution of Gerontology and Geriatrics

There are four main themes in the historical development of our understanding of ageing:

- theories of ageing (biological gerontology), with tenacious beliefs in dryness or loss of heat as important factors in the ageing process;
- how to extend the length of one's lifespan and the quality of life in old age (successful ageing);
- how signs and symptoms alter with age (examples being atypical presentations, such as the lack of pyrexia – or hypothermia – in diseases usually associated with fever);
- the medical care of sick and disabled old people. Clinical Geriatrics is a relatively new speciality, having started just over a century ago.

Aspects of gerontology have been explored for over 5000 years. I will selectively summarise how beliefs and understanding grew and changed over the centuries.
