Murphy's buildings were compromises: new wine in old bottles as he once called them and the book uses those bottles as lenses through which to understand not only Murphy's quest to find a middle ground for his architecture in China but also to gaze at a tumultuous society facing an uncertain future. Murphy's buildings were more than vessels for either aesthetic visions or technical expertise; inadvertently they became political emblems as Chinese rulers such as Chiang Kai-shek and Sun Yat-sen's son called on Murphy for city planning advice to complement their hopes for urban reconstruction.
