Look Down On The Stars:

Carol Reed Peter William Evans, 2019-01-04 Carol Reed is one of the truly outstanding directors of British cinema and one whose work is long overdue for reconsideration This major study ranges over Reed's entire career combining observation of general trends and patterns with detailed analysis of twenty films both acknowledged masterpieces and lesser known works Evans avoids a simplistic auteurist approach placing the films in their autobiographical socio-political and cultural contexts and relating these to the analysis of Reed's art The critical approach combines psychoanalysis gender theory and the analysis of form Archival research is also relied on to clarify Reed's relations with his creative team financial backers and others Films examined include Bank Holiday A Girl Must Live Odd Man Out The Fallen Idol The Third Man Night Train to Munich The Way Ahead Outcast of the Islands Trapeze and Oliver cinemagoing in wartime Britain, 1939-45 Richard Farmer, 2016-06-24 In this groundbreaking book Richard Farmer provides a social and cultural history of cinemas and cinemagoing in Britain between 1939 and 1945 and explores the impact that the war had on the places in which British people watched films Movie-Made Appalachia John C. Inscoe, 2020-11-24 While Hollywood deserves its reputation for much maligned portrayals of southern highlanders on screen the film industry also deserves credit for a long standing tradition of more serious and meaningful depictions of Appalachia's people Surveying some two dozen films and the literary and historical sources from which they were adapted John C Inscoe argues that in the American imagination Appalachia has long represented far more than deprived and depraved hillbillies Rather the films he highlights serve as effective conduits into the region's past some grounded firmly in documented realities and life stories others only loosely so In either case they deserve more credit than they have received for creating sympathetic and often complex characters who interact within families households and communities amidst a wide array of historical contingencies They provide credible and informative narratives that respect the specifics of the times and places in which they are set Having used many of these movies as teaching tools in college classrooms Inscoe demonstrates the cumulative effect of analyzing them in terms of shared themes and topics to convey far more generous insights into Appalachia and its history than one would have expected to emerge from southern California's dream factory Stars Above, Earth Below Tyler
