Looking Through Images Emmanuel Alloa, 2021-10-05 Images have always stirred ambivalent reactions Yet whether eliciting fascinated gazes or iconoclastic repulsion from their beholders they have hardly ever been seen as true sources of knowledge They were long viewed as mere appearances placeholders for the things themselves or deceptive illusions Today the traditional critique of the spectacle has given way to an unconditional embrace of the visual However we still lack a persuasive theoretical account of how images work Emmanuel Alloa retraces the history of Western attitudes toward the visual to propose a major rethinking of images as irreplaceable agents of our everyday engagement with the world He examines how ideas of images and their powers have been constructed in Western humanities art theory and philosophy developing a novel genealogy of both visual studies and the concept of the medium Alloa reconstructs the earliest Western media theory Aristotle's concept of the diaphanous milieu of vision and the significance of its subsequent erasure in the history of science Ultimately he argues for a historically informed phenomenology of images and visual media that explains why images are not simply referential depictions windows onto the world Instead images constantly reactivate the power of appearing As media of visualization they allow things to appear that could not be visible except in and through these very material devices partners in each other's professional growth so that they can navigate the obstacles in their professional landscape with renewed focus and a greater sense of individual and collective efficacy. It equips teachers and by extension their students to chart their own course and author their own equitable and joyful mathematical and professional stories. New York Supreme Court Appellate Division-Second Department, State of New York Supreme Court Appellate Division Fourth Department, *New York Court of Appeals. As far as interaction with screens is concerned the given technology of particular interactive devices entails an ambiguous status of screens: what is shown on the screen has to do with how one interacts with it; that is, we can almost literally see what we are doing. This study is devoted to a theoretical exploration of intersections between mobility and visibility from a historical comparative perspective, addressing the mobility of visual experience and the screen-based access to such experiences in a range of case studies. The author develops the concept through five chapters and analyzes a variety of contemporary screen technologies and the cultural practices involving these screen-based configurations: the ways in which we engage with screens as interfaces with spatial, temporal, and haptic experiences.

Trouble Every Day Kate Robertson, 2021-06-15. Transgressive both in its narrative and in its filmmaking, Trouble Every Day (2001) envisions the monster inside, unspeakable urges, and an overwhelming need for complete incorporation. A plant discovered in the South American jungle produces in its test subjects a terrible, unnatural, and uncontrollable hunger. Vicious, all-consuming desire begets excessive violence and a turn to cannibalism, which situates Trouble Every Day into a tradition of challenging cinema, a film maudit that pushes the boundaries of what can be shown on screen. But while it is certainly an unflinching film, it is deserving of reassessment as part of Claire Denis's filmography as well as a broader cinematic lineage. Focusing on close textual analysis, this book delves into the surfeit of visual, literary, and non-fiction references that shape Trouble Every Day while thwarting attempts to firmly situate it. It considers its place in a lineage of films that push the boundary of taste and representation, aligned as much with Un Chien Andalou (1929) as the New French Extremity. It also considers the film's relationship to such sub-genres as classic monster movies, video nasties, mad science, gothic, vampire, body horror and Italo exploitation cannibal films and directors such as Abel Ferrara Brian de Palma Jean Renoir and Jacques Tourneau Drawing on a range of disciplines including art philosophy and phenomenology this study explores how Trouble Every Day elicits a visceral response to a cinematic experience that beguiles and violates Frame, Glass, Verse Rayna Kalas, 2007 Introduction the Renaissance and its period frames The frame before the work of art The craft of poesy and the framing of verse The tempered frame Poetic offices and the conceit of the mirror Poesy progress and the perspective glass Shakes speare s sonnets and the properties of glass Coda the material sign and the transparency of language Atlantic Monthly ,1898 The Atlantic Monthly ,1898
