Make Your Own Space Story:

Creating Your Own Space María Davis, 2021-03-04 The relationship between women and houses has always been complex Many influential writers have used the space of the house to portray women s conflicts with the society of their time On the one hand houses can represent a place of physical psychological and moral restrictions and on the other they often serve as a metaphor for economic freedom and social acceptance This usage is particularly pronounced in works written in the nineteenth and twentieth century when restrictions on women s roles were changing anxieties about space sometimes seem to dominate the literature of both nineteenth century women and their twentieth century descendants The Metaphor of the House in Feminist Literature uses a feminist literary criticism approach in order to examine the use of the house as metaphor in nineteenth and twentieth century literature

StoryFrames Cynthia Pelman, 2023-12-07 StoryFrames supporting silent children in the classroom How does a teacher support a child who has recently arrived at school speaking another language and who remains completely silent at school for weeks or months not participating in class and not even playing with other children The child s parents often report that the child speaks and plays normally at home with their family and with other children who speak the child s language These children undergoing the Silent Period are usually children who have relocated from another country either voluntarily or as refugees or migrants For a variety of reasons these children do not have the resilience needed to cope with the many changes and anxieties they have experienced The losses for these children are more than the loss of familiar faces places and conversations the loss of their home language is experienced as a loss of the self they had known before the relocation The psychoanalytic theories of Colette Granger provide a way to understand the experiences of these migrant children The StoryFrames book sets out an easy to follow low cost method of supporting these children enabling them to emerge from their silence and to play with other children The book is written by a speech and language therapist but any teacher social worker or volunteer who is experienced in working with young children can run this programme The methodology of this programme is grounded in the developmental theories of Winnicott and Vygotsky and as such it stresses the nature and quality of the teacher child relationship which is at the core of this kind of work The book explores the feelings not only of the child in this situation but also of the teacher working with such a child such a teacher must deal with their own anxieties about what the child is experiencing and about whether they as the teacher who is expected to solve these problems could be doing something different The StoryFrames method is not only for second language learners It has been successfully used with children who have a wide range of communication disabilities Children with Developmental Language Disorder children who stutter children with intellectual disabilities and Highly Sensitive Children have all benefited from the use of this programme which uses narrative and pretend play to help the child to develop linguistic and cognitive skills as well as to have the confidence needed to communicate with others in spite of the difficulties This book is an invaluable source of information for anyone wanting to understand the nature of the teacher or

Jacobs, 2017-12-01 Public libraries must offer relevant exciting and stimulating learning centers that appeal to kids This book is a step by step guide for creating affordable and effective educational programs for children and youth by focusing on one simple concept play With the standards of education rising every year and current technology making all types of information widely available to anyone with an Internet connection libraries need to stay relevant by constantly evolving One important way to strengthen a public library's identity as an irreplaceable resource is to make it an exciting and stimulating learning center that appeals to children and youth. This book demonstrates how to transform the informal setting of a public library into a place where play in the guise of game-based learning becomes a natural and exciting process for children and young students. It also shows readers how to incorporate existing programs such as the makerspace, storytime, and book clubs to play to their strengths, more effectively utilize the tools and resources they have, and transform their libraries. The first two chapters explain why learning through play and exploration isn't only for early childhood development; it identifies the key differences between free play and structured play and addresses why libraries are the perfect setting for learning. Next, the author draws on her experience in children's librarianship and as a children's book author to describe methods to listen to and understand children, manage organized chaos, and gain the children's trust. Additional chapters explain how to write weekly or daily lesson plans, how to brainstorm supporting activities to reinforce concepts being taught, and how to infuse STEM and literacy objectives into daily lessons. The book closes with suggestions on marketing and promotion ways to support the classroom and strategies that will keep them coming back and build an enthusiastic customer base.

Timeless Strategies to Become a Successful Entrepreneur Lawrence Scott Troemel, 2014-05-14      Tom Murphy's Theatre of Everyday Space Moonyoung Hong, 2025-05-08

By the time of his death in 2018, Tom Murphy was widely recognised as one of Ireland's most important modern playwrights. Ireland's experience of rapid modernisation, emigration, and globalisation is vividly captured in his plays, challenging generic notions of space, place, and the nation. In particular, his drama reconfigures Irish theatre's uneasy relationship with globalisation, with the peasant kitchen, the pub, and the bog, having traditionally been exported as the quintessential Irish spaces. Focusing on one of Murphy's central innovations, his experimentation with theatre and everyday space, the book considers the significance of Murphy's work in modern drama more broadly. The idea of home has preoccupied modern playwrights since the naturalist dramas of Henrik Ibsen and Anton Chekhov leading theatre scholars to focus on the everyday space of the home to the exclusion of other everyday spaces Murphy's works by contrast offer a new politics of the interior engaging with a diverse range of other spaces such as dancehalls grocery shops pubs hotels offices churches gasworks and airports His drama presents a global sense of the local an emotional map of the shifting geographies of everyday life By applying new theoretical perspectives and showcasing new archival materials inaccessible to previous scholars the book revisits Murphy as an international playwright a cartographer of our modern day global village Shaper
