Interpersonal Communication Shelley D. Lane, 2016-06-23

Interpersonal Communication Competence and Contexts prepares students to communicate successfully in today's fast paced and complex society through the implementation of a unique competence building model. This highly readable text provides the theories, concepts, and applications in a pedagogically sound format based on a model of communication competence made up of three elements: motivation, knowledge, and skill. Studying interpersonal communication through this distinct framework will provide a foundation for students' motivation to communicate competently, increase their knowledge about communication, and enhance their acquisition and performance of communication skills. Covering a broad range of interpersonal communication themes including strategic alternatives and solutions to communication challenges and information about friendship, family, romantic, and workplace relationships, this Second Edition presents theories, concepts, and activities with engaging examples and an attention-getting design.

The Gender Communication Connection Teri Kwal Gamble, Michael W. Gamble, 2020-11-09. The third edition of this classic text helps readers consider the myriad ways gendered attitudes and practices influence communication in our personal and professional interactions. Written in an engaging style with a wide array of exercises designed to challenge and interest readers in applying what they learn, the book integrates research with examples from contemporary life related to gender and culture, race, class, and media. Among new topics covered in this edition are multiple genders, gender activism, and the MeToo movement and challenges of twenty-first century masculinities and femininities, including expanded coverage of contemporary male issues. Fresh coverage is also afforded to each communication context, particularly gender at work, the legal and political spheres, global cultures, and the digital world, including social media. The book is ideally suited for undergraduate courses in gender and communication within communication studies, sociology, and business departments. Online resources include lecture slides and an instructor's manual.

The Communication Playbook Teri Kwal Gamble, Michael W. Gamble, 2022-10-18. Ideal for hybrid communication courses, The Communication Playbook is designed to equip students with the tools they need to develop communicative resilience in their personal and public lives, whether face-to-face or virtually. Supported by practical learning activities and exercises along with discussions of timely topics such as events of extremism, a global pandemic, and the technological and multicultural nature of society, bestselling authors Teri Kwal Gamble and Michael W. Gamble help students navigate the physical and digital realms of communication, enabling them to become clear, confident communicators. The Second Edition includes updated examples, new annotated speeches on up-to-date topics, and greater coverage of how technology and culture influence communication. Handbook of Risk and Crisis Communication Robert L. Heath, H. Dan O'Hair, 2010-09-28 This handbook features a line of analysis that connects crisis risk and public policy issues into a coherent fabric Each chapter represents the best available research in these areas with insightful notions of where current research and best practices should move in the future      Applied Organizational Communication Thomas E. Harris (Ph. D.), Mark D. Nelson, 2008 Building on the successful foundation of the first volume this second edition has been thoroughly revised reflecting the current state of organizational communication theory and research Highlights of this edition include extensive topical coverage integrated discussion of change diversity and digital age issues in all chapters updated analysis of major issues and influences in organizational communication and real world examples      Affectionate Communication in Close Relationships Kory Floyd, 2018-12-20 Few communication behaviors are more consequential to the development and maintenance of close relationships than the expression of affection Indeed people often use affectionate gestures to initiate or accelerate relationship development In contrast the absence of affection in established relationships frequently coincides with relational deterioration This text explores the scientific research on affection exchange that has emerged from the disciplines of communication social and clinical psychology family studies psychophysiology sociology nursing and behavioral health Specific points of focus include the individual and relational benefits including health benefits of affectionate behavior the significant detriments associated with lacking sufficient affection and the risks of expressing affection It also discusses the primary social and cultural influences on affection exchange critiques principal theories and measurement models and offers suggestions for future empirical research      Creating Restorative Justice Gregory D. Paul, Ian M. Borton, 2021-04-07 Discussion of the histories meanings and assumptions of restorative justice have enriched the development of its theory research and practices While some of this work has addressed the role of communication the treatment of communication within restorative justice remains rather under developed Communication plays a central role in processes of restoration and justice and a constitutive role in making restorative justice what it is In Creating Restorative Justice A Communication Perspective of Justice Restoration and Community Gregory D Paul and Ian M Borton argue that by centering communication in restorative justice as it occurs in various contexts from families to schools to communities we can simultaneously deepen our understanding enrich our practice and amplify our study of restoration and justice From a communication perspective restorative contexts both use and are created by the communication present Any outcomes from restorative processes are thus the product of the communication both within and between restorative practices participants As the world addresses the challenges presented by injustice inequality and insecurity it is incumbent we expand our understanding of restorative processes to account for the vital role of communication      Reaching Out to Children and Families Michelle R. Dunlap, 2000-11-08 Community service and learning experiences are booming as we enter the 21st century This practical guide assists college students and other constituents as they psychologically prepare for volunteering service learning practicums fieldwork assignments and internships in a diverse and ever changing world Though created with the novice community worker in mind this book will also assist professors teachers administrators and agency personnel in understanding and preparing workers for community service and learning in schools child care centers soup kitchens and shelters for the homeless Written in a practical conversational style this book offers the voices issues concerns and resources of more than 200 previous community workers This book includes their struggles with the initial adjustment process as well as ongoing gender race and class issues encountered in various service learning environments Topics range from choosing a community service site to appropriate methods of bringing closure to the experience when it is time to say good bye This book in essence provides hundreds of role models scenarios and worker perspectives that will help less inexperienced workers prepare for the real life hands on experiences of community engagement

Handbook of Literacy and Technology David Reinking, Michael C. McKenna, Linda D. Labbo, Ronald D. Kieffer, 1998-04-01 The major shift going on today in the technologies of reading and writing raises important questions about conventional conceptions of literacy and its role in education society and culture What are the important characteristics of electronic forms of reading and writing distinguishing them from printed forms To what extent and in what ways is literacy being transformed by new technologies This central question is addressed in this volume from diverse multidisciplinary perspectives The contributing authors focus on a guiding question in one of the following areas which correspond to the major sections of the book Transforming Texts What are the new differences between printed and electronic texts and what are the implications of new textual forms for defining literacy especially in regard to teaching and learning in schools Transforming Readers and Writers How do electronic reading and writing change conceptualizations of literacy development from childhood through adulthood Transforming Classrooms and Schools What are the effects of introducing new reading and writing technologies into schools and classrooms Transforming Instruction How can instruction be adapted in response to the changing literacy landscape and how can teachers and students exploit forms of reading and writing to enhance teaching and learning Transforming Society What are the broad societal implications of the increasing prevalence of electronic forms of reading and writing Transforming Literacy Research What are the questions that must be addressed as digital reading and writing become more common and what approaches to research will be most useful in addressing those questions This volume is the result of an interactive process The contributors met as a group to discuss drafts of their chapters at a one day meeting convened and sponsored by the National Reading Research Center and had read each others chapters prior to this gathering That meeting was followed by a two day conference attended by approximately 180 researchers educators and policymakers who responded to an open invitation to present papers and to attend sessions focusing on the six major themes of the book Contributors then revised their chapters based on interactions with fellow contributors conference participants and volume editors Thus this work is more than just a compilation of the individual authors views Rather it represents a synthesis of a broad range of current thinking about how literacy is being and may be transformed by technology
