The New Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature: Volume 4, 1900-1950 George Watson, I. R. Willison, 1972-12-07 More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 4 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature. The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis, articulation, and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition. The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957 to add materials of the following decade, to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available, and to reshape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries.

Horton Foote Charles S. Watson, 2010-01-01 Winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Drama for The Young Man from Atlanta and Academy

Awards for the screen adaptation of To Kill a Mockingbird and the original screenplay Tender Mercies as well as the recipient of an Academy Award nomination for the screenplay of The Trip to Bountiful and the William Inge Lifetime Achievement Award Horton Foote is one of America's most respected writers for stage and screen. The deep compassion he shows for his characters, the moral vision that infuses his social commentary and the kindness and humanity that Foote himself radiates have also made him one of our most revered artists, the father figure who understands our longings for home, for human connections and for certainty in a world largely bereft of these. This literary biography thoroughly investigates how Horton Foote's life and worldview have shaped his works for stage, television and film. Tracing the whole trajectory of Foote's career from his small town Texas upbringing to the present day, Charles Watson demonstrates that Foote has created a fully imagined mythical world from the materials supplied by his own and his family's and friends' lives in Wharton, Texas, in the early twentieth century. Devoting attention to each of Foote's major works in turn, he shows how this world took shape in Foote's writing for the New York stage, Golden Age television, Hollywood films and in his nine play masterpiece The Orphan's Home Cycle. Throughout, Watson's focus on Foote as a master playwright and his extensive use of the dramatist's unpublished correspondence make this literary biography required reading for all who admire the work of Horton Foote. Small

Screen, Big Feels Melissa Ames, 2020-12-02 While television has always played a role in recording and curating history, shaping cultural memory and influencing public sentiment, the changing nature of the medium in the post-network era finds viewers experiencing and participating in this process in new ways. They skim through commercials, live tweet press conferences and award shows and tune into reality shows to escape reality. This new era, defined by the heightened anxiety and fear ushered in by 9/11, has been documented by our media consumption, production and reaction. In Small Screen, Big Feels, Melissa Ames asserts that TV has been instrumental in cultivating a shared memory of emotionally charged events unfolding in the United States since September 11, 2001. She analyzes specific shows and genres to illustrate the ways in which cultural fears are embedded into our entertainment, in series such as The Walking Dead and Lost or critiqued through programs like The Daily Show. In the final section of the book, Ames provides three audience studies that showcase how viewers consume and circulate emotions in the post-network era: analyses of live tweets from Shonda Rhimes's drama How to Get Away with Murder (2010-2020), ABC's reality franchises The Bachelor (2002-present) and The Bachelorette (2003-present), and political coverage of the 2016 Presidential Debates. Though film has been closely studied through the lens of affect theory, little research has been done to apply the same methods to television. Engaging an impressively wide range of texts, genres, media and formats, Ames offers a trenchant analysis of how televisual programming in the United States responded to and reinforced a cultural climate grounded in fear and anxiety. Stewart Parker Marilynn Richtarik, 2012-09-06 Born in Belfast during World War II, raised in a working-class Protestant family and educated on scholarship at Queen's University, writer Stewart Parker's story is in many ways the story of his generation. Other aspects of his personal history, though, such as the amputation of his left leg at age 19 helped to create an extraordinarily perceptive observer and commentator Steeped in American popular culture as a child and young adult he spent five years teaching in the United States before returning to Belfast in August 1969 the same week British troops responded to sectarian disturbances there Parker had developed a sense of writing as a form of political action in the highly charged atmosphere of the US in the late 1960s which he applied in many and varied capacities throughout the worst years of the Troubles to express his own socialist and secular vision of Northern Irish potential As a young aspiring poet and novelist he supported himself with free lance work that brought him into contact with institutions ranging from BBC Northern Ireland to the Irish Times for which he wrote personal columns and the music review feature High Pop and from the Queen s University Extramural Department to Long Kesh internment camp where his creative writing students included Gerry Adams It is as a playwright however that Parker earned a permanent spot in the literary canon with drama that encapsulates his experience of Northern Ireland in the 1970s Marilyn Richtarik s Stewart Parker A Life illuminates the genesis development and meaning of such classic plays as Spokesong Northern Star and Pentecost works that continue to shed light on the North s past present and future in the context of Parker s life and times Meticulously researched and engagingly written this critical biography rewards general readers and specialists alike
