success Most of us agree that it is critical at this moment in time to reimagine what school could be This reimagination must be informed by the best available science and built on current educational wisdom found in our schools This book does just that and makes clear that more playful learning across the K 12 school system would be the most natural way to help all students learn the 21st century knowledge and skills they need in life From the Foreword by Pasi Sahlberg author of Finnish Lessons 3 0 What Can the World Learn from Educational Change in Finland and professor of education Southern Cross University Lismore Australia The Making of Our Middle Schools Elmer Ellsworth Brown, 1905 Making Schools Work Barbara Bruns, Deon Filmer, Harry Anthony Patrinos, 2011 This book is about the threats to education quality in the developing world that cannot be explained by lack of resources It reviews the observed phenomenon of service delivery failures in public education cases where programs and policies increase the inputs to education but do not produce effective services where it counts in schools and classrooms It documents what we know about the extent and costs of such failures across low and middle income countries And it further develops the conceptual model posited in the World Development Report 2004 that a root cause of low quality and inequitable public services not only in education is the weak accountability of providers to both their supervisors and clients The central focus of the book however is a new story It is that developing countries are increasingly adopting innovative strategies to attack these problems Drawing on new evidence from 22 rigorous impact evaluations across 11 developing countries this book examines how three key strategies to strengthen accountability relationships in developing country school systems have affected school enrollment completion and student learning The book reviews the motivation and global context for education reforms aimed at strengthening provider accountability It provides the rationale and synthesizes the evidence on the impacts of three key lines of reform 1 policies that use the power of information to strengthen the ability of clients of education services students and their parents to hold providers accountable for results 2 policies that promote school based management that is increase schools autonomy to make key decisions and control resources often empowering parents to play a larger role 3 teacher incentives reforms that specifically aim at making teachers more accountable for results either by making contract tenure dependent on performance or offering performance linked pay The book summarizes the lessons learned draws cautious conclusions about possible complementarities across different types of accountability focused reforms if they are implemented in tandem considers issues related to scaling up reform efforts and the political economy of reform and suggests directions for future work

Making Schools Work for Underachieving Minority Students Josie G. Bain, Joan L. Herman, 1990-06-27 Labeled A Nation at Risk Americans are urgently seeking reform in their public school systems While many promising programs are being developed they have not yet been validated The national conference Making Schools Work for Underachieving Minority Students shared the best of what is presently known and deliberated on the implications for research policy and practice Sponsored by CRESST Center for Research on Evaluation Standards and Student Testing The National Urban League and the National Council of LaRaza the conference was financed by the U S Department of Education Closely following the structure of the conference this volume s contributors examine education s current status They then investigate potentially promising approaches to specific problem areas Contributors treat issues of evaluation and testing and conclude by addressing the potential of collaborative efforts Responding to a major challenge community groups and organizations throughout the country are seeking answers to the problem of underachieving minority students This volume builds on these shared interests and is a first step toward an intervention process Topics covered include creating effective instructional programs reducing the dropout rate preparing students for secondary and postsecondary success helping limited English proficient students and improving teacher quality The volume s contributors hope to promote dialogue on promising practices foster collaboration identify critical R D needs and collaborative arrangements and identify testing and evaluation issues for subsequent inquiry
