

My mother lost her mother recently. Before she went away, I never realised how much she'd miss her.

Alongside, I can't fathom the time I'd have to live without my mother, let's be realistic.

This mother's day, I promise my mother that I'll be there for her when she needs her mother, and when she would want to be the mother.

She can play all those roles so perfectly, I can at least try to, for her.

Troubled Paradise Eric Reitan, 2024-12-12 Grief over the loss of those we love is one of the most painful parts of life But Christianity has long offered consolation to those who grieve in the form of the Easter promise Death is not the end Beyond it lies a realm of perfect joy where mourning is no more and every tear is wiped away But won't this promise have limits if as Christians have traditionally believed some of God's creatures are eternally lost Can I really be perfectly happy in heaven if say my children are damned or annihilated And what about the Christian teaching that those in heaven are morally sanctified Doesn't this mean they will be perfected in a love so wide it includes even our enemies and hence the lost While delving deeply into the nature of grief and its relation to Christian ethics this book explores the reasoning that generates this problem of heavenly grief examines purported solutions and invites deeper reflection on a frequently dismissed idea that avoids the problem altogether the universalist notion that there are no limits to Easter's promise because all are ultimately saved

Missing Persons Clair Wills, 2024-04-02 How far would you go for the missing Blending private and public history cultural analysis family memoir and autobiography Clair Wills explores profound questions about memory loss motherhood and emigration She traces a history of sexual secrecy through four generations of unplanned pregnancies in her own family stretching from the 1890s to the 1980s and from the West of Ireland to Massachusetts London and the English countryside dramatizing the power of secret keeping as a form of care but also as a form of violence and exclusion At the heart of her search is a cousin who went missing from her own family born in a mother and baby home in the 1950s and brought up in an institution Wills asks not only what happened but why Why did families consent to the institutional care and control of unmarried mothers and their children Why did the system make sense to ordinary families and how can we make sense of it now What questions should we be asking about guilt blame and responsibility In order to uncover how people thought about illicit sex illegitimacy and institutions Wills follows the tracks laid down in family stories and anecdotes She interprets the gaps as places where the past was both preserved and disavowed We are all born into families regardless of whether we are allowed to belong to them In Missing Persons Wills asks us to undertake a radical reshaping of our idea of the family We are all part of the historical archive the remembering and forgetting is in us whether we like it or not Now That She's Gone Chelsea
