New Light on Old Masters Ernst H. Gombrich, 1986 New Light on Old Masters. Studies in the Art of the Renaissance. Vol. Iv E.H. Gombrich, 1986 The Art of Renaissance Europe Bosiljka Raditsa, 2000 Works in the Museum's collection that embody the Renaissance interest in classical learning fame and beautiful objects are illustrated and discussed in this resource and will help educators introduce the richness and diversity of Renaissance art to their students Primary source texts explore the great cities and powerful personalities of the age By studying gesture and narrative students can work as Renaissance artists did when they created paintings and drawings Learning about perspective students explore the era's interest in science and mathematics Through projects based on poetic forms of the time students write about their responses to art The activities and lesson plans are designed for a variety of classroom needs and can be adapted to a specific curriculum as well as used for independent study The resource also includes a bibliography and glossary

Handbook to Life in Renaissance Europe Sandra Sider, 2005 Examines architecture and design dance fashion literature music philosophy religion theater and visual arts in Europe between 1300 and 1600 Renaissance Theory James Elkins, Robert Williams, 2008-04 Renaissance Theory presents an animated conversation among art historians about the optimal ways of conceptualizing Renaissance art and the links between Renaissance art and contemporary art and theory This is the first discussion of its kind involving not only questions within Renaissance scholarship but issues of concern to art historians and critics in all fields Organized as a virtual roundtable discussion the contributors discuss rifts and disagreements about how to understand the Renaissance and debate the principal texts and authors of the last thirty years who have sought to reconceptualize the period They then turn to the issue of the relation between modern art and the Renaissance Why do modern art historians and critics so seldom refer to the Renaissance Is the Renaissance our indispensable heritage or are we cut off from it by the revolution of modernism The volume includes an introduction by Rebecca Zorach and two final synoptic essays as well as contributions from some of the most prominent thinkers on Renaissance art including Stephen Campbell Michael Cole Frederika Jakobs Claire Fargo and Matt Kavalier Raphael's Poetics David Rijser, 2025-10-01 Raphael's Poetics applies strategies of interpretation implicit in antique poetry to the visual art of the Renaissance concentrating on Raphael's Roman works and their cultural context Until recently scholarly discussion was dominated by the application of Renaissance literary theory to visual arts obscuring the fact that Renaissance humanists who contributed to literary theory were in the first instance and almost without exception poets rather than theorists To counter the tendency towards theory the hermeneutic rules implicit in their poetry and thus the poetry itself is brought to the fore by this study as a hermeneutical tool By focusing on the interaction between the work of art and its public Rijser offers innovative interpretations of canonical works and important insights into the cultural history of the early modern period Reconstructing a visual grammar and defining the context in which Raphael's art functioned this study illuminates contemporary significances that have since been lost The Making of the Modern Canon Jan Gorak,2014-01-13 This book is part of a series which moves the canon debate of the 1980s forward into a new multidisciplinary and cross cultural phase by investigating problems of canon formation across the whole humanistic field Some volumes explore the linguistic political or anthropological dimensions of canonicity Others examine the historical canons of individual disciplines The important contribution to the canon debate is remarkable in examining the actual process of canon formation from three unusual and complementary angles The first two chapters discuss historical attitudes to canons from antiquity onwards showing the religious aesthetic cultural and political interests which have shaped our modern critical canons Each of the four succeeding chapters examines an exemplary modern defendant interpreter or critic of canons Ernst Gombrich Northrop Frye Frank Kermode and Edward Said A final chapter considers the origins and rationale of the contemporary debate emphasizing the disciplinary and aesthetic problems we must confront if our cultural institutions are to meet the changing needs of the next century At the Dawn of a New Consciousness Bernard Nesfield-Cookson,2010 The Italian Renaissance is considered by many to mark the beginning of the modern age The name itself literally rebirth accurately expresses the innovation that took place during that period Renaissance thinkers took a vital interest in history literature and the arts focusing on the human world as much as if not more than that of God The rapid development of the arts and sciences reflected their study of the visible physical world in all its three dimensional glory The source of these new impulses says the author can be found in what Rudolf Steiner calls the birth of the consciousness soul the faculty for objective self awareness Instead of a primarily inward looking consciousness people began looking outward with greater intensity observing the world around them in detail With greater conscious of their separate being people of the Renaissance began to study the phenomena of the world of nature from an individual personal perspective In this enlightening book illustrated with sixteen pages of color plates the author illuminates the concept of the consciousness soul showing how it is reflected in fifteenth century Florentine painting sculpture and architecture as well as in the impulses issuing from Plato s Academy of Athens

Italian Renaissance Art Laurie Schneider Adams,2018-05-04 The chronology of the Italian Renaissance its character and context have long been a topic of discussion among scholars Some date its beginnings to the fourteenth century work of Giotto others to the generation of Masaccio Brunelleschi and Donatello that flourished from around 1400 The close of the Renaissance has also proved elusive Mannerism for example is variously considered to be an independent but subsidiary late aspect of Renaissance style or a distinct style in its own right Laboratories of Art Sven Dupré,2014-04-25 This book explores the interconnections and differentiations between artisanal workshops and alchemical laboratories and between the arts and alchemy from Antiquity to the eighteenth century In particular it scrutinizes epistemic exchanges between producers of the arts and alchemists In the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries the term laboratorium uniquely referred to workplaces in which chemical operations were performed smelting combustion distillation dissolution and precipitation

Artisanal workshops equipped with furnaces and fire in which chemical operations were performed were also known as laboratories. Transmutational alchemy, the transmutation of all base metals into more noble ones, especially gold, was only one aspect of alchemy in the early modern period. The practice of alchemy was also about the chemical production of things, medicines, porcelain, dyes, and other products, as well as precious metals, and about the knowledge of how to produce them. This book uses examples such as the Uffizi to discuss how Renaissance courts established spaces where artisanal workshops and laboratories were brought together, thus facilitating the circulation of materials, people, and knowledge between the worlds of craft, today's decorative arts, and alchemy. Artisans became involved in alchemical pursuits beyond a shared material culture, and some crafts relied on chemical expertise offered by scholars trained as alchemists. Above all, texts and books, products and symbols of scholarly culture, played an increasingly important role in artisanal workshops. In these workplaces, a sort of hybrid figure was at work. With one foot in artisanal and the other in scholarly culture, this hybrid practitioner is impossible to categorize in the mutually exclusive categories of scholar and craftsman. By the seventeenth century, the expertise of some glassmakers, silver and goldsmiths, and producers of porcelain was just as based in the worlds of alchemical and bookish learning as it was grounded in hands-on work in the laboratory. This book suggests that this shift in workshop culture facilitated the epistemic exchanges between alchemists and producers of the decorative arts.
