

MONDAY, DECEMBER 2

Therefore let us not judge one another anymore, but rather realize this, not to put a stumbling block or a cause to fall in our brother's way. Romans 14:13 (NIV)

TODAY I AM BAKING lebkuchen. These German chocolate and-with-cookies are filled with jam and topped with powdered sugar.
They are time-consuming and difficult to prepare but well worth the effort—my husband's favorite. One of the reasons I make them for my holiday planner is that my mother did, and before that her mother did, and so on. I suspect that when I'm gone, my daughter will take up the tradition.

My mother shied away from the American measurement system.
She chose her metric scale. I use cups and teaspoons. The result is the same cookie, but with slight differences, due to our preferences. I can only guess the changes my daughter might make to the original recipe.

Faith is like that. It's said that if you ask ten believers about Jesus, you'll receive ten different answers. Just as the subtle changes in my family's Christmas cookies reflect our individuality, each of us sees Jesus from our own unique perspective.

Like these challenging treats, at times we'll face unexpected risk.
We'll deal with them in our specific way, according to our personal history and personalities. And we'll rest in the knowledge that we are not alone. We have Jesus. He is the one vital ingredient to all our beliefs.

Like those delicious sandwich cookies, knowing Jesus is to rest.
—HEIDI GALT

FAITH STEP: Pull out a long-forgotten family recipe and make it for loved ones.
Be sure to add a bit of your individual taste to the dish.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 2

*For just as he who called you is holy, so be holy in all you do.
1 Peter 1:15 (NIV)*

"Take your sewing!" my son, Mason, exclaimed when I'll be up our elusive seam. With our family huddled together under blankets on the couch, the white noise lighter twinkled and a fire danced in the fireplace, I realized I'll meant so much more to us than just a long Christmas film. It's our annual tradition that marks the start of the holiday season. As the hustle and bustle of December begins, we stop, come together, and literally connect, shoulders touching, dozing. It takes so little effort, yet we're blessed. We're blessed by the promise of the season, and we're blessed because we take time to recognize the bond that connects us, making us a family while the movie plays. It's another fiber weaving its way around our hearts, binding us closer to each other.

That's what time together does. Whether we're having deep conversation, playing silly games, or sitting quietly together on the couch, it's not the activity that matters; it's the time spent together that deepens the relationship.

So too it is with Jesus. Whether we're shopping for the perfect present, alone deep in thought while making cookie dough, or leaving our table wrapping gifts, when we invite Jesus into our holiday preparations, our tasks become holy. They also become more fibers weaving their way around our hearts, binding us closer to Him.
—CARRIE MCGARR

FAITH STEP: What tradition brings you closer to Jesus? If you can't think of one, perhaps be inspired with something that will deepen your relationship with Him.
