New Guinea Vegetation:

New Directions in Archaeological Science Andrew S. Fairbairn, Sue O'Connor, Benjamin Marwick, 2009-02-01

Archaeological Science meetings will have a personality of their own depending on the focus of the host archaeological fraternity itself. The 8th Australasian Archaeometry meeting follows this pattern but underlying the regional emphasis is the continuing concern for the processes of change in the landscape that simultaneously effect and illuminate the archaeological record. These are universal themes for any archaeological research with the increasing employment of science based studies proving to be a key to understanding the place of humans as subjects and agents of change over time. This collection of refereed papers covers the thematic fields of geoarchaeology, archaeobotany, materials analysis and chronometry with particular emphasis on the first two. The editors Andrew Fairbairn, Sue O'Connor and Ben Marwick outline the special value of these contributions in the introduction. The international nature of archaeological science will mean that the advances set out in these papers will find a receptive audience among many archaeologists elsewhere. There is no doubt that the story that Australasian archaeology has to tell has been copiously enriched by incorporating a widening net of advanced science based studies. This has brought attention to the nature of the environment as a human artefact, a fact now more widely appreciated and archaeology deals with these artefacts among others in this way in this publication. New Guinea Vegetation K.

Ecology of Indonesian Papua Part Two Andrew J. Marshall, Bruce M. Beehler, 2012-06-26

The Ecology of Papua provides a comprehensive review of current scientific knowledge on all aspects of the natural history of western Indonesian New Guinea. Designed for students of conservation, environmental workers and academic researchers, it is a richly detailed text dense with biogeographical data, historical reference and fresh insight on this complicated and marvelous region. We hope it will serve to raise awareness of Papua on a global as well as local scale and to catalyze effective conservation of its most precious natural assets. New Guinea is the largest and highest tropical island and one of the last great wilderness areas remaining on Earth. Papua, the western half of New Guinea, is noteworthy for its equatorial glaciers, its vast forested floodplains, its imposing central mountain range, its Raja Ampat Archipelago and its several hundred traditional forest dwelling societies. One of the wildest places left in the world, Papua possesses extraordinary biological and cultural diversity. Today Papua's environment is under threat from growing outside pressures to exploit its expansive forests and to develop large plantations of oil palm and biofuels. It is important that Papua's leadership balance economic development with good resource management to ensure the long term well being of its culturally diverse populace. The Plant Diversity of Malesia P. Baas, K. Kalkman, R. Geesink, 2012-12-06. Although the only publication with a realistic claim to the title, The plant diversity of Malesia is Flora Malesiana itself, we have hesitatingly chosen this title for the present proceedings volume. Past, present and future work on the Flora Malesiana project was the subject of a successful symposium held in August 1989. This book contains only a selection of the papers presented at that meeting yet it covers a much greater diversity of themes than just the inventory of botanical diversity It even goes beyond the boundaries of the vast Flora Malesiana region in several of its chapters The role of the founder of the Flora Malesiana Project Professor C G G J van Steenis repeatedly recurs in several chapters not only as director of and contributor to the project but also as a pioneer in the fields of Malesian vegetation conservation and biogeography and as an enlightened systematist whose ideas and practical recommendations for taxonomic delimitation still largely apply Botanical information made available in regional and local floras is of vital importance for applications such as the exploitation of natural forests on a sustainable yield basis for establishing gene banks for the benefit of agriculture forestry and horticulture and not in the least for nature conservation Several chapters are devoted to these themes Floristic studies are also at the basis of the biogeographical essays and vegetation studies included in this book

Traditional Trees of Pacific Islands Craig R. Elevitch, 2006 This book is for the person who lives in the tropics or subtropics and is interested in native plants who wants to know about plants that are useful who loves to watch plants grow and who is willing to work with them Such a person might ask questions like Where will they grow How do I grow them Are they good to eat How are they used What are their names These questions and more are answered here Preface The Conservation Atlas of Tropical Forests N. Mark Collins, 1991-06-18 The first of a series designed to cover all tropical rain forests in the world This is a visual portfolio of detailed maps of Asia accompanied by a text which seeks to analyze the extent and causes of deforestation and to point a way towards sustainable forest development The Vegetation of the Island of New Guinea Papua-New Guinea (Ter.). Department of Forests, 1963 The Future of Tropical Rain Forests in South East Asia J. Davidson, John Michael Davidson, Tho Yow Pong, Maarten Bijleveld, 1985 The Purari – tropical environment of a high rainfall river basin T. Petr, 2012-12-06 One of the major river systems of our country the Purari River finds its outlet to the sea in the Gulf of Papua on the southern coast of Papua New Guinea All highlands provinces contribute to this mighty river the Erave of the Southern Highlands Province joins with the Kaugel and Wahgi Rivers Western Highlands the Tula River Simbu and Asaro and Aure Rivers of the Eastern Highlands Province to make the Purari the third largest river in PNG Unlike its rivals the Fly and the Sepik the distance between its escape from the mountains and its entrance to the sea is short After winding its way mostly through deep gorges flanked by high mountains the river leaves the foothills of the southern slopes of the central cordillera barely eighty kilometers from the sea The energy potential of such a river is enormous Could the waters be utilised in any way to the advantage of the nation Twelve years ago the Electricity Commission of Papua New Guinea proposed an answer to this question the building of a dam across the river in the Wabo area of the Gulf Province The generation of vast quantities of hydro electric power could be fed into a national distribution grid and heavy industries could be established in the Gulf Province and other suitable localities to benefit from this power Ecology of Indonesian Papua Part One Andrew J. Marshall, Bruce M. Beehler, 2011-07-19 The Ecology of Papua provides a comprehensive review of current scientific knowledge on all aspects of the natural history of western Indonesian New Guinea
