Bomber Command Airfields of Yorkshire Peter Jacobs, 2017-05-30

As part of the Aviation Heritage Trail series the accomplished military author and former RAF Officer Peter Jacobs takes us to the county of Yorkshire and to its many bomber airfields of the Second World War. From the opening day of hostilities RAF Bomber Command took the offensive to Nazi Germany and played a leading role in the liberation of Europe. Yorkshires airfields played a key part throughout initially as home to the Whitley squadrons of No 4 Group and then to the four engine Halifax heavy bombers indeed Bomber Command's first night operation of the war was flown from one of the county's many bomber airfields. Then as the bombing offensive gathered pace Yorkshire welcomed the new all Canadian No 6 RCAF Group after which all of Bomber Command's major efforts during the hardest years of 1943-44 against the Ruhr Hamburg and Berlin involved the Yorkshire based squadrons. Most of Yorkshires wartime bomber airfields have long gone but many have managed to retain the flying link with their wartime past. For example the former RAF airfields of Finningley and Middleton St George and the factory airfield of Yeadon are now the sites of international airports while Brighton Burn Full Sutton Pocklington and Rufforth are still used for light aircraft flying or gliding and Elvington is home to the magnificent Yorkshire Air Museum. From airfields such as these came countless acts of personal courage and self sacrifice with two men being awarded the Victoria Cross Britains highest award for gallantry. Stories of both men are included as are tales of other personalities who brought these airfields to life. The stories of thirty three airfields are told in total with a brief history of each accompanied by details of how to find them and what remains of them today. Whatever your interest be it aviation history or more local the county of Yorkshire has rightly taken its place in the history of Bomber Command.

Bomber Aircrew in World War II Bruce Barrymore Halpenny,2004-09-19 Aircrew on a bomber in World War II experienced a cold tiring and perilous existence The RAF flew at night when the human spirit is at its lowest ebb and for many it did not seem prudent to think further ahead than the target and then hope for a safe return Daytime raids brought the fear of defending fighters preying on the massed formations of heavily laden aircraft as they struggled over enemy territory The ground crew saw their aircraft heave themselves into the air and their imagination filled the silent hours until they counted in the returning aircraft and saw the ravages of the enemy defences and the hazards of foul weather This is their story

The Mediterranean Air War Robert S. Ehlers, Jr., 2015-03-27. Without what the Allies learned in the Mediterranean air war in 1942-1944, the Normandy landings and so perhaps the Second World War II would have ended differently. This is one of many lessons of The Mediterranean Air War, the first one-volume history of the vital role of airpower during the three-year struggle for control of the Mediterranean Basin in World War II and of its significance for the Allied successes in the war's last two years. Airpower historian Robert S. Ehlers opens his account with an assessment of the pre-war Mediterranean theater, highlighting the ways in which the players' strategic choices, strengths and shortcomings set the stage for and ultimately shaped the air campaigns over the Middle Sea. Beginning with the Italian invasion of Abyssinia, Ehlers reprises the developing international crisis initially between Britain and Italy and finally encompassing France, Germany, the US, other members of the British Commonwealth and the Balkan countries He then explores the Mediterranean air war in detail with close attention to turning points joint and combined operations and the campaign s contribution to the larger Allied effort In particular his analysis shows how and why the success of Allied airpower in the Mediterranean laid the groundwork for combined arms victories in the Middle East the Indian Ocean area North Africa and the Atlantic northwest Europe Of grand strategic importance from the days of Ancient Rome to the Great Power rivalries of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries the Middle Sea was no less crucial to the Allied forces and their foes Here in the successful offensives in North Africa in 1942 and 1943 the US and the British learned to conduct a coalition air and combined arms war Here in Sicily and Italy in 1943 and 1944 the Allies mastered the logistics of providing air support for huge naval landings and opened a vital second aerial front against the Third Reich bombing critical oil and transportation targets with great effectiveness The first full examination of the Mediterranean theater in these critical roles as a strategic and tactical testing ground for the Allies and as a vital theater of operations in its own right The Mediterranean Air War fills in a long missing but vital dimension of the history of World War II
