their critics What is virtue ethics What makes a trait a virtue Is there a link between virtue and happiness What is involved in being well motivated What is practical wisdom What makes an action right The last four chapters focus on important challenges or objections to virtue ethics Can virtue ethics be applied to particular moral problems Does virtue ethics ultimately rely on moral principles Can it withstand the situationist critique What are the prospects for an environmental virtue ethics

Thrivers Michele Borba, Ed. D.,2022-03-08 The bestselling author of UnSelfie offers 7 teachable traits that will safeguard our kids for the future We think we have to push our kids to do more achieve more BE more But we re modeling the wrong traits like rule following and caution and research shows it s NOT working This kind of Striver mindset isn t just making kids unhappier says Dr Michele Borba it s actually the opposite of what it takes to thrive in the uncertain world ahead Thrivers are different they flourish in our fast paced digital driven often uncertain world Why Through her in depth research Dr Borba discovered that the difference comes down not to grades or test scores but to seven character traits that set Thrivers apart confidence empathy self control integrity curiosity perseverance and optimism The even better news these traits can be taught to children at any age in fact parents and educators must do so In Thrivers Dr Borba offers practical actionable ways to develop these traits in children from preschool through high school showing how to teach kids how to cope today so they can thrive tomorrow

The Industrious Child Worker Mary Nejedly,2021-09-01 Studies of child labour have examined the experiences of child workers in agriculture mining and textile mills yet surprisingly little research has focused on child labour in manufacturing towns This book investigates the extent and nature of child labour in Birmingham and the West Midlands from the mid eighteenth century to the end of the nineteenth century It considers the economic contributions of child workers under the age of 14 and the impact of early work on their health and education Child labour in the region was not a short lived stage of the early Industrial Revolution but an integral part of industry throughout the nineteenth century Parents regarded their children as potentially valuable contributors to the family economy encouraging families to migrate from rural areas so that their children could work from an early age in the manufacture of pins nails buttons glass locks and guns as well as tin plating carpet weaving brass casting and other industries The demand for young workers in Birmingham was greater than that for adults in Mary Nejedly s detailed analysis the importance of children s earnings to the family economy becomes clear as well as the role played by child workers in industrialisation itself In view of the economic benefit of children s labour to families as well as employers both children s education and health could and did suffer As well as working at harmful processes that produced dangerous fumes and dust or exposed them to poisonous substances children also suffered injuries in the workplace mainly to the head eyes and fingers and were often subjected to ill treatment from adult workers The wide gulf in economic circumstances that existed between the families of skilled workers and those of unskilled workers unemployed workers or single parent families also becomes evident Attitudes towards childhood changed over the course of the period however with a greater emphasis being placed on the role of education for all children as a means of reducing pauperism and dependence on the poor rate Concerns about health also gradually emerged together with laws to limit work for children both by age and hours worked Mary Nejedly s clear eyed research sheds fresh light on the life of working children and increases our knowledge of an important aspect of social and economic history
