Redefining Equality:

Redefining Equality Neal Devins, Davison M. Douglas, 1998 These essays present an array of views about the meaning of equality and provide perspectives on the on going debates about it The collection presents a range of opinions and insights that speak to America's ability to define and deal with the politics of equality C# Web Development with ASP.NET Jose Mojica, 2003 Learn Microsoft's new C language with this highly visual and accessible task based guide Task based visual step by step guide to learning C this is ideal as an introductory guide for beginners or as a handy reference for more experienced C programmers A New Paradigm for Global School Systems Joel Spring, 2007-02-22 This volume is a major new contribution to Joel Spring's reportage and analysis of the intersection of global forces and education offers a new paradigm for global school systems Education for global economic competition is the prevailing goal of most national school systems Spring argues that recent international studies by economists social psychologists and others on the social factors that support subjective well being and longevity should serve as a call to arms to change education policy the current industrial consumer paradigm is not supportive of either happiness or long life Building his argument through an original documentation synthesis and critique of prevailing global economic goals for schools and research on social conditions that support happiness and long life Spring develops guidelines for a global core curriculum methods of instruction and school organizations translates these guidelines into a new paradigm for global school systems based on progressive human rights and environmental educational traditions contrasts differing ways of seeing and knowing among indigenous Western and Confucian based societies concluding that global teaching and learning involve a particular form of holistic knowing and seeing and proposes a prototype for a global school an eco school that functions to protect the biosphere and human rights and to support the happiness and well being of the school staff students and immediate community and for a global core curriculum based on holistic models for lessons and instruction The book concludes with Spring's retelling of Plato's parable of the cave in which educators break the chains that bind them to the industrial consumer paradigm and rethink their commitment to humanity's welfare Just Below the Line Korydon H. Smith, 2010-05 With America on the brink of the largest number of older adults and persons with disabilities in the country's history the deceleration in housing production during the first decade of the twenty first century and a continued reliance on conventional housing policies and practices a perfect storm has emerged in the housing industry The lack of fit between the existing housing stock and the needs of the U S population is growing pronounced Just as housing needed to be retooled at the end of WWII the American housing industry is in dire need of change today The South with its high rates of poverty older residents residents with disabilities extensive rural areas and out of date housing policies and practices serves as a canary in the coal mine for the impending nationwide housing crisis Just Below the Line discusses how reworking the policies and practices of the housing industry in the South can serve as a model for the rest of the nation in meeting the physical and social needs of persons with disabilities and aging

Protecting Human Rights and Building Peace in Post-Violence Societies Nasia Hadjigeorgiou, 2020-02-20 This book critically examines the relationship between protecting human rights and building peace in post violence societies It explores the conditions that must be present and strategies that should be adopted for the former to contribute to the latter The author argues that human rights can aid peacebuilding efforts by helping victims of past violence to articulate their grievance and by encouraging the state to respond to and provide them with a meaningful remedy This usually happens either through a process of adjudication whereby human rights can offer guidance to the judiciary as to the best way to address such grievances or through the passing and implementation of human rights laws and policies that seek to promote peace However this positive relationship between human rights and peace is both qualified and context specific Through an interdisciplinary and comparative analysis of four case studies the book identifies the conditions that can support the effective use of human rights as peacebuilding tools Developing these the book recommends a series of strategies that peacebuilders should adopt and rely on Winner of the Constantinos Emilianides Award in Law for 2020 joint conferment

Corporatism, Social Control, and Cultural Domination in Education: From the Radical Right to Globalization Joel Spring, 2012-11-27 Starting with the 1972 publication of his seminal work Education and the Rise of the Corporate State Joel Spring has been documenting and analyzing the politics of knowledge and education Throughout his work he has explored the attempts to use education to advance the economic and political interests of dominant groups The general term he uses for the relationship between schools and power is ideological management His scholarly work first looked at the influence on American schooling of business and economic doctrines embodied in human capital theories and consumerism The next step in his exploration of the politics of knowledge was to examine these issues in the context of globalization leading to a proposed educational rights amendment to national constitutions and a new paradigm for education both of which might ensure that schools are protected from ideological management by economic and political elites Spring's indigenous background has strongly shaped his interest in the political and economic goals of schooling particularly the attempts of those in power to use schools to destroy indigenous languages and cultures In this collection Spring brings together 10 of his key writings providing an overview not just of his own career but the larger contexts in which it is situated In the Introduction he reviews the evolution and scope of his work and his earlier arguments and reflects on its central themes which are reflected in the writings selected for this volume In the World Library of Educationalists international scholars themselves compile career long collections of what they judge to be their finest pieces extracts from books key articles salient research findings major theoretical and practical contributions so the world can read them in a single manageable volume Readers will be able to follow the themes and strands of their work and see their contribution to the development of a highlighting the resilience strength and determination of women throughout history and inspiring readers to continue the fight for a better future If you like this book write a review on google books After Brown Charles T. Clotfelter, 2011-10-16

The United States Supreme Court's 1954 landmark decision Brown v Board of Education set into motion a process of desegregation that would eventually transform American public schools This book provides a comprehensive and up to date assessment of how Brown's most visible effect contact between students of different racial groups has changed over the fifty years since the decision Using both published and unpublished data on school enrollments from across the country Charles Clotfelter uses measures of interracial contact racial isolation and segregation to chronicle the changes He goes beyond previous studies by drawing on heretofore unanalyzed enrollment data covering the first decade after Brown calculating segregation for metropolitan areas rather than just school districts accounting for private schools presenting recent information on segregation within schools and measuring segregation in college enrollment Two main conclusions emerge First interracial contact in American schools and colleges increased markedly over the period with the most dramatic changes occurring in the previously segregated South Second despite this change four main factors prevented even larger increases white reluctance to accept racially mixed schools the multiplicity of options for avoiding such schools the willingness of local officials to accommodate the wishes of reluctant whites and the eventual loss of will on the part of those who had been the strongest protagonists in the push for desegregation Thus decreases in segregation within districts were partially offset by growing disparities between districts and by selected increases in private school enrollment
