The Reflection TLJ Heaven,2021-08-23 The world we create will be a sustainable one One without humanity One without all those you love We will reward you with being one of the last men to view the ashes of the world you currently know And then we will let you die To rectify the tragic loss of his eldest daughter Rebecca Doctor Johnathan Grunge searched for solutions through his genetic studies It was time for Doctor Grunge to unveil his years of research to the public domain He was never aware of the full implications of his experiments His focus was not shifted away from his DNA program to the monster he created in the dark The monster that kept him sleepless at night The monster that lurked over his family

Reflections James O. Jeffers,2003 The book chronicles James Jeffers life from about age two but it purposefully falls short of being either memoirs or autobiography With this work he has attempted to simply record for his children grandchildren and others the wonderful events of his life as he experienced them The book covers thousands of miles of travel along with living and working with peoples of differing cultures on three continents and in the Caribbean five foreign countries and fifteen different states spanning the nation from coast to coast to coast Bioethical Reflections on the Border between Life and Death Alessandro Ferrara,2025-11-04 The present volume provides a bioethical and legal philosophical inquiry into three of the most ethically controversial and politically sensitive domains of contemporary biolaw: surrogacy, end of life decisions and medical triage. The book's approach transcends mere description or comparison, delving into the ethical and philosophical dimensions required to adopt a normative framework for evaluating the management of human life at its biological thresholds: birth and death. Within the central chapters, the text follows a consistent thread through a legal/philosophical perspective, examining whether the choices of giving life through surrogacy, ending life, and allocating medical resources in contexts of scarcity can be considered ethically admissible while investigating whether normative structures exist that are capable of guiding human action and upholding autonomy, equality, justice, and human dignity. Written in clear and accessible language, this book provides conceptual clarity and critical reflection for scholars and practitioners in bioethics, biolaw, philosophy of law, and health policy.

Guided Reflection Christopher Johns, 2011-06-13 an important text for practitioners, this text is a valuable tool that develops self-inquiry skills. Journal of Advanced Nursing Reflection is widely recognised as an invaluable tool in health care, providing fresh insights which enable practitioners to develop their own practice and improve the quality of their care. Guided Reflection: A Narrative Approach to Advancing Professional Practice introduces the practitioner to the concept of guided reflection, in which the practitioner is assisted by a mentor or guide in a process of self-enquiry, development, and learning through reflection in order to effectively realise one's vision of practice and self as a lived reality. Guided reflection is grounded in individual practice and can provide deeply meaningful insights into self-development and professional care. The process results in a reflexive narrative which highlights key issues for enhancing healthcare practice and professional care. Reflection: A Narrative Approach to Advancing Professional Practice uses a collection of such narratives from everyday clinical practice to demonstrate the theory and practicalities of guided reflection and narrative construction. In this second edition, Chris Johns has explored many of the existing narratives in more depth. Many new contributions have been added, including several more innovative reflections such as performance and art. These narratives portray the values inherent in caring, highlight key issues in clinical practice, reveal the factors that constrain the quest to realise practice, and examine the ways practitioners work towards overcoming these constraints.

Flying, Fighting and Reflection Peter Jacobs, 2018-09-30 This is the thrilling account of the last remaining Battle of Britain ace fighter pilot Tom Ginger. Neil Neil was one of an elite band nicknamed 'The Few' by Winston Churchill; he flew Hurricanes during 141 combat missions in that battle and went on to command the first Spitfire XII squadron during 1942-43 as the RAF went on the offensive in north-west Europe. In this, the only full account of Neil's life to be published in collaboration with his family, we learn how he became a poster boy for the war effort and how he credits his sixth sense for keeping him alive during the Second World War. There was, however, one terrifyingly close brush with death when in 1940 he had a mid-air collision with another Hurricane. With the rear section of his aircraft gone, the plane was out of control and hurtling to the ground, yet somehow he managed to bail out and miraculously survived with only a minor leg injury. As well as RAF service during the Siege of Malta Wing Commander Neil who is now in his late nineties also served with the Americans during the D Day landings During his career Neil was awarded two Distinguished Flying Crosses for the destruction of at least fourteen enemy aircraft and was a successful test pilot after the war before commanding a jet fighter reconnaissance squadron in Egypt's troubled Canal Zone during the 1950s for which he was awarded the Air Force Cross With contributions from the man himself this book also looks at his life after the RAF and his career as a successful author For military buffs and novices alike it is a must read account of a true war hero

Social Work, Critical Reflection and the Learning Organization Mark Baldwin, 2016-04-01 A critical characteristic of human service organizations is their capacity to learn from experience and to adapt continuously to changing external conditions such as downward pressure on resources constant reconfiguration of the welfare state and rapidly changing patterns of social need This invaluable groundbreaking volume discusses in detail the concept of the learning organization in particular its relevance to social work and social services Contributors join together from across Europe North America and Australia to explore the development of the learning organization within social work contexts and its use as a strategic tool for meeting problems of continuous learning supervision and change The volume addresses a range of important topics from strategies for embedding learning and critical reflection in the social work learning organization to the implications of the learning organization for the new community based health and social care agenda
