Side By Side Kids And Parents Together Learning And Sharing:

Side-by-Side Delia Touchton Halverson, 2002 Even in churches that attract large numbers of families the education program frequently suffers from a lack of participation Parents may feel that Sunday is their only time to be together as a family and are hesitant to spend an hour separated from their children in Sunday school Side by Side is a book of Sunday school lessons that allow parents and children to learn about the Christian faith alongside one another Also an excellent resource for mid week programs and for intergenerational or family retreats

The Child as Social Person Sara Meadows, 2009-12-16 Questions about how children grow up in their social worlds are of enormous significance for parents teachers and society at large as well as for children themselves Clearly children are shaped by the social world that surrounds them but they also shape the social worlds that they and those significant to them encounter But exactly how does this happen and what can we do to ensure that it produces happy outcomes This book provides a critical review of the psychological literature on the development of personality social cognition social skills social relations and social outcomes from birth to early adulthood It uses Bronfenbrenner's model of the development of the person and up to date evidence to analyse normal and abnormal social development prosocial and antisocial behaviour within and across cultures As well as outlining the theory the book addresses applied issues such as delinquency school failure and social exclusion Using a coherent theoretical structure The Child as Social Person examines material from across the biological and social sciences to present an integrated account of what we do and do not know about the development of the child as a social actor The Child as Social Person provides an integrated overview of the exciting field of developmental social psychology and as such will be essential reading for advanced undergraduate students in psychology education and social work as well as postgraduates and researchers in these disciplines
