Sidelights on a Century of Music (1825-1924) Gervase Hughes, 1969      Two Centuries of British Symphonism

Jürgen Schaarwächter, 2015-02-27 Die britische Sinfonik ist erst in jüngster Zeit ins allgemeine Interesse gerückt. Ein Überblick über die sinfonische Entwicklung im Vereinigten Königreich seit den Anfängen im 18. Jahrhundert bis ins 20. Jahrhundert blieb aber bis heute ein Desideratum. Der hier vorgelegte Überblick zeigt, wie sich die Identität einer britischen Sinfonik über mehr als hundert Jahre entwickelte, geprägt durch Einflüsse vom europäischen Kontinent und von dem Bedürfnis, eigene Wege zu finden. Gegen Ende des 19. Jahrhunderts nahm das sinfonische Schaffen in Großbritannien stark zu, brachte jedoch erst mit Edward Elgar einen prominenten Vertreter von internationalem Rang hervor. Ein besonderer Schwerpunkt dieser Publikation liegt auf jenen Werken, die zu einem gewissen Grade von anderen überschattet wurden, unveröffentlicht oder unaufgeführt blieben. Das Ergebnis ist das Bild einer vielgestaltigen sinfonischen Landschaft Großbritanniens, das die ästhetischen Perspektiven der einzelnen Komponisten wie auch ihre soziokulturellen Kontexte erhellt. Ein umfangreiches Verzeichnis aller bekannten Werke und eine ausführliche Bibliographie laden zu weiterer Erkundung des Sujets ein. Only in relatively recent times has any real attention been given to British symphonies. So a comprehensive survey showing what exists and how the situation in the United Kingdom developed from the beginnings in the 18th century until well into the 20th century is long overdue. The preliminary survey presented here shows how a British symphonic identity gradually took shape over more than a century through influences from abroad and at home, enterprising attempts to find new ways of expression. By the end of the 19th century British symphonists had produced an impressive body of work, yet only with the appearance of Elgar's two symphonies in the following decade did this flourishing school find a champion of international renown. In this publication light is shone on those works that have to some extent been overshadowed, as well as on those that have remained unpublished or unperformed. The result is a multi-faceted panorama of British symphonism, offering many insights into the composers' thinking and their socio-cultural contexts. A comprehensive catalogue of all known works and an extensive bibliography invite readers to delve further into the subject.

Opera in the British Isles, 1875-1918 Paul

Rodmell, 2016-05-13 While the musical culture of the British Isles in the long nineteenth century has been reclaimed from obscurity by musicologists, in the last thirty years appraisal of operatic culture in the latter part of this period has remained largely elusive. Paul Rodmell argues that there were far more opportunities for composers, performers and audiences than one might expect, an assertion demonstrated by the fact that over one hundred serious operas by British composers were premiered between 1875 and 1918. Rodmell examines the nature of operatic culture in the British Isles during this period, looking at the way in which opera was produced and consumed by companies and audiences, the repertory, performed social attitudes to opera, the dominance of London's West End and the activities of touring companies in the provinces, and the position of British composers within this realm of activity. In doing so, he uncovers the undoubted challenges faced by opera in

Britain in this period and delves further into why it was especially difficult to make a breakthrough in this particular genre when other fields of compositional endeavour were enjoying a period of sustained growth Whilst contemporaneous composers and commentators and later advocates of British music may have felt that the country's operatic life did not measure up to their aspirations or ambitions there was still a great deal of activity and even if this was not necessarily that which was always desired it had a significant and lasting impact on musical culture in Britain

Phillips, 2021-10-28 First published in 2000 Gabriel Urbain Fauré was born 12 May 1845 in Pamiers in the south of France Faure's compositional style has proven difficult to classify Some music historians consider him a figure of the nineteenth century a traditionalist even a neo-romantic others consider him part of the twentieth century at the least a predecessor of modern French music or at the other extreme a quiet revolutionary and a great influence upon France's musical future This research guide offers a selective annotated list of writings biographical information and lists of works and photographs      Library of Congress Catalog Library of Congress, 1973 A cumulative list of works represented by Library of Congress printed cards      The German Symphony between Beethoven and Brahms Christopher Fifield, 2016-03-03 It was Carl Dahlhaus who coined the phrase dead time to describe the state of the symphony between Schumann and Brahms Christopher Fifield argues that many of the symphonies dismissed by Dahlhaus made worthy contributions to the genre He traces the root of the problem further back to Beethoven's ninth symphony a work which then proceeded to intimidate symphonists who followed in its composer's footsteps including Schubert Mendelssohn and Schumann In 1824 Beethoven set a standard that then had to rise in response to more demanding expectations from both audiences and the musical press Christopher Fifield who has a conductor's intimacy with the repertory looks in turn at the five decades between the mid 1820s and mid 1870s He deals only with non-programmatic works leaving the programme symphony to travel its own route to the symphonic poem Composers who lead to Brahms himself a reluctant symphonist until the age of 43 in 1876 are frequently dismissed as epigones of Beethoven Mendelssohn and Schumann but by investigating their symphonies Fifield reveals their respective brands of originality even their own possible influence upon Brahms himself and in so doing shines a light into a half century of neglected nineteenth century German symphonic music      Anton Rubinstein Philip S.
