

~~X~~ Activity 2 Play from Note-to-Note

Write the names of the notes in the boxes, then play.

Start with landmark notes, then move down or up.

Do not move hand as in Activity 1.

The image shows a musical score for a piano exercise in 4/4 time. The score is written on a grand staff with a treble clef on the top staff and a bass clef on the bottom staff. The key signature is one flat (B-flat). The exercise is divided into four measures. The first measure contains a piano (p) dynamic marking with a red arrow pointing down to the first note in the bass staff. The first two notes of the bass staff are quarter notes: B-flat (labeled with a red '3' below it) and A-flat (labeled with a red '4' in a box below it). The next two notes are also quarter notes: G-flat (labeled with a red '2' in a box below it) and F-flat. The second measure contains two quarter notes in the treble staff: B-flat and A-flat. The third measure contains two quarter notes in the treble staff: G-flat and F-flat, with the text "Repeated notes!" written in red below them. The fourth measure contains two quarter notes in the treble staff: E-flat and D-flat, with the text "Landmark note" written in red below the E-flat note. The score ends with a double bar line and repeat dots.

Hoover, William E. Tunmer, 2020-06-09 This book serves as a succinct resource on the cognitive requirements of reading It provides a coherent overall view of reading and learning to read and does so in a relatively sparse fashion that supports retention The initial sections of the book describe the cognitive structure of reading and the cognitive foundation upon which that structure is built This is followed by discussions of how an understanding of these cognitive requirements can be used in practice with standards assessments curriculum and instruction to advance the teaching of reading and the delivery of interventions for students who encounter difficulties along the way The book focuses on reading in English as its exemplar but shows how its framework can be adapted to understand the broad cognitive requirements for reading and learning to read in any phonologically based orthography It provides a way for reading professionals to think about reading and its development and gives them mechanisms that coupled with such understanding will help them link what children must know to become strong readers to what teaching can best provide through the competent use of available tools In this way the book will help reading professionals be both efficient and effective in what they provide all their students and be much better equipped to support those students who struggle to learn to read      Excellence and Equity in Literacy Education William Tunmer, J. Chapman, 2015-06-13 Literacy is arguably the most important goal of schooling as to a large extent it determines young children's educational and life chances and is fundamental in achieving social justice New Zealand's literacy education programme has long been regarded as one of the world's most successful approaches to teaching literacy skills to young children Excellence and Equity in Literacy Education questions this widely held assumption In the late 1990s the New Zealand government developed a national literacy strategy aimed at reducing persistently large inequities in literacy achievement outcomes The chapters in this edited volume present evidence indicating that the national literacy strategy has failed examine the major factors responsible for the continuation of New Zealand's comparatively wide spread of scores in literacy achievement and describe the most effective strategies for reducing the literacy achievement gap and achieving excellence and equity in New Zealand literacy education
