Compact Cinematics Pepita Hesselberth, Maria Poulaki, 2017-01-26 Compact Cinematics challenges the dominant understanding of cinema to focus on the various compact short miniature pocket sized forms of cinematics that have existed from even before its standardization in theatrical form and in recent years have multiplied and proliferated taking up an increasingly important part of our everyday multimedia environment Short films or micro narratives cinematic pieces or units re assembled into image archives and looping themes challenge the concepts that have traditionally been used to understand cinematic experience like linear causality sequentiality and closure and call attention to complex and modular forms of cinematic expression and perception Such forms in turn seem to meet the requirements of digital convergence which has pushed the development of more compact and mobile hardware for the display and use of audiovisual content on laptops smartphones and tablets Meanwhile contemporary economies of digital content acquisition filing and sharing equally require the shrinking of cinematic content for it to be recorded played projected distributed and installed with ease and speed In this process cinematic experience is shortened and condensed as well so as to fit the late capitalist attention economy The essays in this volume ask what this changed technical socio economic and political situation entails for the aesthetics and experience of contemporary cinematics and call attention to different concepts theories and tools at our disposal to analyze these changes

Michiel Heyns: Three Novels in One Michiel Heyns, 2015-07-06 Lost Ground is a richly textured novel set in contemporary South Africa. The murder of a beautiful woman shatters the rural village peace of Alfredville and her husband the police station commander is jailed as chief suspect. Her cousin Peter, a freelance writer in London, returns to South Africa for the first time in decades, unsettled, curious but also in search of a career-defining story. As Peter abandons the neatly patterned story he had planned and is forced to participate in a community that he once despised, he begins to reconsider his place in the world. In search of Desiré's story, he now starts to rewrite his own till events take an even more shocking turn. Lost Ground explores questions of xenophobia and prejudice of national, sexual and personal identity and what it means to be a foreigner wherever you go. In Invisible Furies, Christopher Turner returns to Paris after a thirty-year absence. He is here to extricate his best friend's son Eric from the mercenary machinations of some Parisian gold digger or so it is assumed at home in South Africa. Christopher, with melancholy memories of Paris, is deeply ambivalent about the city and as for the young Eric, Christopher remembers him as a brutish lout with little to recommend himself. As Christopher comes to know and enjoy this ambiguous world, he finds his moral categories challenged: is beauty a trap for the innocent young or a self-validating even ennobling attribute of a fully lived life? Responding to the gentle appeal of Beatrice, he feels ever more strongly that the young man's place is in Paris with her rather than on his father's farm in Franschoek. But Eric has ideas of his own. Exploring as in the widely applauded Lost Ground, the tensions between the fatherland and a larger world, Michiel Heyns turns an ironic eye on the most seductive city on earth and traces with humour and insight the invisible furies of the heart. In A Sportful Malice, a young South African literary scholar Michael Marcussi is offered via a Facebook contact a house in the Tuscan village of Gianocini and he accepts with alacrity: this is just the space and quiet he needs to complete his study of Literary Representations of Tuscany. But even before he has boarded his plane at Stansted Airport, things start vexing him: an obnoxious old man jumps the boarding queue and Michael is given the evil eye by a belligerent bovver boy covered in tattoos. Nor is this to be his last meeting with these objectionable characters; they turn up in unexpected places: first in Florence and then in Gianocini itself, with a frequency that cannot be purely coincidental. In the meantime, Michael is pursuing his own extracurricular agenda through the streets of Florence and the passages of the Uffizi, then through the medieval alleys of Gianocini, only to find himself the object of mysterious designs and the subject of some very disturbing paintings. Add to this the innocent but curious Wouter, the startlingly rude upper-class harridan Sophronia, the beautiful but supercilious Paolo and a dog called Thanatos: the Tuscan sun never shone on a more bizarre mix. A Sportful Malice is a scintillating tale of love, revenge and trippa.
