Dowd, 2010-09-20 Among the many important tools feminist legal theorists have given scholars is that of anti essentialism all women are not created equal and privilege varies greatly by circumstances particularly that of race and class Yet at the same time feminist legal theory tends to view men through an essentialist lens in which men are created equal The study of masculinities inspired by feminist theory to explore the construction of manhood and masculinity questions the real circumstances of men not in order to deny men's privilege but to explore in particular how privilege is constructed and what price is paid for it In this groundbreaking work feminist legal theorist Nancy E Dowd exhorts readers to apply the anti essentialist model so dominant in feminist jurisprudence to the study of masculinities She demonstrates how men's treatment by the law and society in general varies by race economic position sexuality and other factors She applies these insights to both boys and men examining how masculinities analysis exposes both privilege and subordination She examines men's experience of fatherhood and sexual abuse and boys' experience in the contexts of education and juvenile justice Ultimately Dowd calls for a more inclusive feminist theory which by acknowledging the study of masculinities can broaden our understanding of privilege and subordination Social Research for our Times Claire Cameron, Alison Koslowski, Alison Lamont, Peter Moss, 2023-11-14 For 50 years researchers at UCL's Thomas Coram Research Unit have been undertaking ground breaking policy relevant social research Their main focus has been social issues affecting children young people and families and the services provided for them Social Research for our Times brings together different generations of researchers from the Unit to share some of the most important results of their studies Two sections focus on the main findings and conclusions from research into children and children services and on family life minoritised groups and gender A third is then devoted to the innovative methods that have been developed and used to undertake research in these complex areas Running through the book is a key strategic question what should be
