Making Friends With The Stars:

Making Friends with the Stars Arthur J. Zaddle, 1963      Things Worth Doing and How To Do Them Lina Beard, Adelia B. Beard, 2021-05-19 Things Worth Doing and How To Do Them is an anthology that serves as both a guide and a treasure trove of inspiration for those looking to explore the manifold dimensions of creative pursuits. The collection masterfully weaves together an array of practical projects that invite readers to engage in hands-on activities ranging from crafts to outdoor exploration. Rooted in the context of late 19th to early 20th century America, this work reflects a period when self-reliance and creativity were paramount virtues. The featured projects are diverse in scope and execution, appealing to readers with varied interests, all while maintaining an underlying theme of self-discovery and empowerment through creativity. The anthology draws on the unique talents and experiences of Lina Beard and Adelia B. Beard, sisters renowned for their pivotal role in pioneering recreational literature for girls and women. Their contributions highlight a transformative era in which women's voices began gaining prominence in literature and cultural discourse. The Beard sisters' work aligns with broader movements such as the rise of the Progressive Era in the United States, which emphasized education reform and civic engagement. Their richly varied projects unite historical contexts and forward-thinking ideals, offering readers an enriched perspective on the potential for individual and communal growth. For those seeking a holistic, multifaceted reading experience, Things Worth Doing and How To Do Them presents a compelling invitation. This anthology not only sparks creativity but also offers valuable insights into the social and cultural fabric of its time. Its diversity of perspectives fosters dialogue, encouraging readers to engage with both the practical nuances and the broader philosophical underpinnings of the activities. By delving into this volume, readers gain an appreciation for the melding of tradition and innovation, making it an essential addition to any collection focused on historical creativity and educational enrichment.

What Stars Are Made Of Donovan Moore, 2020-03-03 A New Scientist Book of the Year A Physics Today Book of the Year A Science News Book of the Year The history of science is replete with women getting little notice for their groundbreaking discoveries. Cecilia Payne Gaposchkin, a tireless innovator who correctly theorized the substance of stars, was one of them. It was not easy being a woman of ambition in early twentieth-century England, much less one who wished to be a scientist. Cecilia Payne Gaposchkin overcame prodigious obstacles to become a woman of many firsts: the first to receive a PhD in astronomy from Radcliffe College, the first promoted to full professor at Harvard, the first to head a department there. And in what has been called the most brilliant PhD thesis ever written in astronomy, she was the first to describe what stars are made of. Payne Gaposchkin lived in a society that did not know what to make of a determined schoolgirl who wanted to know everything. She was derided in college and refused a degree. As a graduate student, she faced formidable skepticism. Revolutionary ideas rarely enjoy instantaneous acceptance, but the learned men of the astronomical community found hers especially hard to take seriously. Though welcomed at the Harvard College Observatory, she worked for years without recognition or status. Still, she accomplished what every scientist yearns for discovery She revealed the atomic composition of stars only to be told that her conclusions were wrong by the very man who would later show her to be correct In What Stars Are Made Of Donovan Moore brings this remarkable woman to life through extensive archival research family interviews and photographs Moore retraces Payne Gaposchkin s steps with visits to cramped observatories and nighttime bicycle rides through the streets of Cambridge England The result is a story of devotion and tenacity that speaks powerfully to our own time Falling Stars Fern
