Serruys,Miki Sugiura,2019-11-20 This edited collection examines the formation of urban networks and role of gateways in Europe from the Middle Ages to the modern world In the past gateway cities were merely perceived as transport points only relevant to maritime shipping Today they are seen as the organic entities coordinating the allocation of resources and supporting the growth efficiency and sustainability of logistics including both the transport and distribution of goods and services Using different historical case studies the authors consider how logistics shaped urban networks and were shaped by them Migration Policies and Materialities of Identification in European Cities Hilde Greefs,Anne Winter,2018-10-08 This book focusses on the instruments practices and materialities produced by various authorities to monitor regulate and identify migrants in European cities from the sixteenth to the twentieth centuries Whereas research on migration regulation typically looks at local policies for the early modern period and at state policies for the contemporary period this book avoids the stalemate of modernity narratives by exploring a long term genealogy of migration regulation in which cities played a pivotal role The case studies range from early modern Venice Stockholm and Constantinople to nineteenth and twentieth century port towns and capital cities such as London and Vienna

Gilles Deleuze and Félix Guattari while engaging in an entirely unprecedented manner the critical new understanding of material processes derived from the sciences of dynamics Working against prevailing attitudes that see history merely as the arena of texts discourses ideologies and metaphors De Landa traces the concrete movements and interplays of matter and energy through human populations in the last millennium The result is an entirely novel approach to the study of human societies and their always mobile semi stable forms cities economies technologies and languages De Landa attacks three domains that have given shape to human societies economics biology and linguistics In each case De Landa discloses the self directed processes of matter and energy interacting with the whim and will of human history itself to form a panoramic vision of the West free of rigid teleology and naive notions of progress and even more important free of any deterministic source for its urban institutional and technological forms The source of all concrete forms in the West's history rather is shown to derive from internal morphogenetic capabilities that lie within the flow of matter energy itself A Swerve Edition High Germans
