Metropolitan Governance and Spatial Planning Willem Salet, Anton Kreukels, 2002 Metropolitan Governance and Spatial Planning W. G. M. Salet, Anton Kreukels, 2002 Metropolitan Regions, Planning and Governance Karsten Zimmermann, Daniel Galland, John Harrison, 2019-10-24 The aim of this book is to investigate contemporary processes of metropolitan change and approaches to planning and governing metropolitan regions To do so it focuses on four central tenets of metropolitan change in terms of planning and governance institutional approaches policy mobilities spatial imaginaries and planning styles The book's main contribution lies in providing readers with a new conceptual and analytical framework for researching contemporary dynamics in metropolitan regions It will chiefly benefit researchers and students in planning urban studies policy and governance studies especially those interested in metropolitan regions The relentless pace of urban change in globalization poses fundamental questions about how to best plan and govern 21st century metropolitan regions The problem for metropolitan regions especially for those with policy and decision making responsibilities is a growing recognition that these spaces are typically reliant on inadequate urban economic infrastructure and fragmented planning and governance arrangements Moreover as the demand for more appropriate i.e. more flexible networked and smart forms of planning and governance increases new expressions of territorial cooperation and conflict are emerging around issues and agendas of de-growth infrastructure expansion and the collective provision of services Governance and City Regions Karsten Zimmermann, Patricia Feiertag, 2021-12-24 City regions are areas where the daily journeys for work shopping and leisure frequently cross administrative boundaries They are seen as engines of the national economy but are also facing congestion and disparities Thus all over the world governments attempt to increase problem solving capacities in city regions by institutional reform and a shift of functions This book analyses the recent reforms and changes in the governance of city regions in France Germany and Italy It covers themes such as the impact of austerity measures territorial development planning and state modernisation The authors provide a systematic cross country perspective on two levels between six city regions and between the national policy frameworks in these three countries They use a solid comparative framework which refers to the four dimensions functions institutions and governance ideas and space They describe the course of the reforms the motivations and the results and consequently they question the widespread metropolitan fever or resurgence of city regions and provide a better understanding of recent changes in city regional governance in Europe The primary readership will be researchers and master students in planning urban studies urban geography political science and governance studies especially those interested in metropolitan regions and/or decentralisation Due to the uniqueness of the work the book will be of particular interest to scholars working on the comparative European dimension of territorial governance and planning The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license European Dimension of Metropolitan

Resilience Thinking in Urban Planning Ayda Eraydin, Tuna Taşan-Kok, 2012-11-29 There is consensus in literature that urban areas have become increasingly vulnerable to the outcomes of economic restructuring under the neoliberal political economic ideology The increased frequency and widening diversity of problems offer evidence that the socio economic and spatial policies planning and practices introduced under the neoliberal agenda can no longer be sustained As this shortfall was becoming more evident among urban policymakers planners and researchers in different parts of the world a group of discontent researchers began searching for new approaches to addressing the increasing vulnerabilities of urban systems in the wake of growing socio economic and ecological problems This book is the joint effort of those who have long felt that contemporary planning systems and policies are inadequate in preparing cities for the future in an increasingly neoliberalising world It argues that resilience thinking can form the basis of an alternative approach to planning Drawing upon case studies from five cities in Europe namely Lisbon Porto Istanbul Stockholm and Rotterdam the book makes an exploration of the resilience perspective raising a number of theoretical debates and suggesting a new methodological approach based on empirical evidence This book provides insights for intellectuals exploring alternative perspectives and principles of a new planning approach
