My Garden in Spring E. A. Bowles,2015-06-12 Excerpt from My Garden in Spring It is a pleasure and a privilege to be asked to write about a real garden There are nowadays so many gardeners that gardens are growing every year more rare Every one must have their rock work and the very rich are out to purchase the glories of the Alps at so much a yard with all the more contentment if the price be heavy so that their munificence may be the more admired Passion for display appears the ruling note in English horticulture of every kind and in every period we want a show It is now not so very long since carpet bedding went out of fashion with a roar of contemptuous execration and for a short period we were all for a return to what we spoke of as Nature but what was merely wobbly anarchy reduced to a high art But in those days at least the rock garden was a place of plants and if such a thing existed in ones ground at all it was not a mere dog s grave to trail Nasturtiums over but a fabric framed because its owner really wanted to do his best for Dianthus glacialis or Campanula pulla But now the accursed thing is once more rearing its head and carpet bedding is bursting up to life again in the midst of the very rock garden itself of all places impermissible and improbable About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

My Garden in Spring (Classic Reprint) E. A. Bowles,2017-09-17 Excerpt from My Garden in Spring What would they say now if they were led into the garden through which we are now going to be conducted by its creator Never before having seen a place for growing plants in never having heard the names of Ella combe or wolley dod or if they have connecting them with no vitalising work or idea how will their noses not corrugate in scorn on merely perceiving plants only plants plants well grown plants happy plants well suited and consulted and made at home But there are others less rich who will be glad of traversing such holy ground and learning how the hills can be made to yield up their secret and their children taught to forget the far high lands of their birth and feel themselves contented and at home within a dozen miles of London The essence of the real garden is the insignificance of the garden itself the soul of the real garden lies in the perfect prosperity of the plants of which it is the home instead of being merely by the modern reversal of right laws the expensive and unregarded colour relief of its titanicly compounded cliffs of stucco and Portland cement Come into Mr Bowles's garden and learn what true gardening is and what is the real beauty of plants and what the nature of their display A lowly piece of ground wandering here and there in gentle natural ravines and slopes No vast structures but bank added to bank as the plants require it and nothing asked of the structure except that it be simple and harmonious and best calculated to serve the need of the little people it is to accommodate to accommodate About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
