

Death Of A Loved One

I can't believe you're gone; I'd keep you here if I could
It pains me to accept the fact, but now I've understood Nothing in this world is forever, good or bad
But at least you're safe in heaven, for which I am glad
Your sadness and pain have finally ended
I know that this was the plan that God had intended
I know by now you are standing at those heavenly gates
Up in heaven is where your new life awaits
You must be looking down on us,
I know you'd want us to be strong
Because I know you have been strong all long
I'm going to miss you; I know this to be true
I'm never going to forget the last moments
we spent with you
You have flown up in the blue sky
Now it is time to say our final goodbyes
Rest in perfect peace.

Flagg, 2002-02-19 A Woman's Stories Poetry pertaining to life experiences life love friendships life as I know it This is in rhyme words that ejected in such a way that express myself my life as it was dealt These stories are easily followed mostly inspired by people and incidents in my life In three sections Section one dedicated to my children how very much they mean to me answers to some of their many questions some amusement mostly my love of them Section two to my husband my love my emotions my passion our fashions and my promise Section three to family and friends the life as I know it starting very early in life explained in the last story Kathleen my sister Three short stories Regrets his love and I must let him know how very much I love him and forgive him and cannot bear to lose him I believe this is a book that can be placed on anyone's bookshelf stories to be read to young children poetry that can be enjoyed by women and men too Stories that can be lessons to teens true stories that I went through with no happy ending until the real thing came along Thankfully I was not tangled in the wrong web where as to have missed out Diaries from this Woman's heart once broken over and over and mended finally with reality sense and love Live to Tell David Talamantes, 2008-05 Organisations private and public operate in an increasingly uncertain landscape in which they are confronted with challenges they might not be ready to face They desperately need the engaged minds of their workforces The evidence however suggests that for the most part they don't have that There is an urgent need to address the high cost of low trust and employee disengagement Revealing a new approach centred on redefining what we mean by management and business and that it is a collective form of learning that binds them together and facilitates sustained high performance Donal Carroll examines high performing organisations to uncover how they have built trust managed value adopted new types of business model and successfully engaged in collective learning The new management model is about retaining control by giving it away more accountable self management a new professionalism and about framing organisation as the basic unit of purpose rather than management itself Next new business models are examined more suited to complex internet enabled markets that allow greater choice but which need organizational alertness to what works Thirdly learning is considered with a focus on moving from organisational learning to productive interference sustaining action based learning that thrives on mess in an open trusting democratic climate The author provides tools and techniques enabling organisations to measure creativity and innovation and to undertake self assessment of their position in relation to the new management business and learning models as well as guidance on energising change initiatives self leading and accountability Practicing managers change leaders coaches and consultants as well as business scholars and researchers will find much that is useful in this book     The Boy and the Wolf Tracie Lee Nix,2006-10     Three times
